INTERNAL PAPERS SHOW FACEBOOK TORN BETWEEN PEOPLE & MONEY

Thousands of pages of internal documents provided to Congress by a former employee depict an internally conflicted company

'PROBLEMS WERE FLAGGED BUT IGNORED'

The crisis exposed by the documents shows how Facebook, despite its avowed good intentions, sidelined efforts to address harms such as hate speech, misinformation and calls to violence. The papers reveal numerous instances where researchers and rank-and-file workers uncovered deep-seated problems that the firm then ignored due to commercial concerns

Gosavi to give up; vigilance heat on extortion racket

NCB goes into a huddle after pay-off allegations by witness in cruise drug case

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

A day after a witness in the cruise ship drugs case claimed that some NCB officials sought ₹25 crore from actor Shah Rukh Khan to let his son Aryan off the hook, the agency ordered a high-level vigilance probe into it.

Prabhakar Sail, who is witness No 1 in the case, had said in his affidavit that NCB zonal director Sameer Wankhede's middle man Sam D'Souza and absconding witness K P Gosavi had demanded the money from the actor.

Prabhakar, the personal bodyguard of Gosavi, also alleged that Wankhede got him to sign on 10 blank papers.

NCB's vigilance unit head Gyaneshwar Singh will lead the member team that will probe allegations of extortion. The team, also comprising two inspector-level officers, will record the statements of Wankhede and others. It will also analyse the evidence given by Sail and submit its report to the DG of NCB.

"We will check the facts of the case before taking a decision over Sameer Wankhede's suspension," said Gyaneshwar Singh.

According to Sail's affidavit, Gosavi and D'Souza demanded ₹25 crore from SRK at the behest of Wankhede. He said they were ready to settle at ₹18 crore, out of which ₹8 crore was given to Wankhede and the rest would be distributed between them.

Following the explosive charges, the Maharashtra government on Monday decided to give security to Sail.

Meanwhile Gosavi, who had gone missing, surfaced on Monday to deny the allegation levelled by Sail. Gosavi said there is a threat to his life in Mumbai but he can't trust the Mumbai police. Therefore, he said he will surrender in Uttar Pradesh.

On his part, Wankhede had approached a sessions court with the plea that no action be taken on Sail's allegations. However, the court rejected it saying the matter is already in the high court.

Meanwhile, Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut said that D'Souza does money laundering for Wankhede. P10

CVC CAPITALS, RPSG SPRING AN IPL SURPRISE

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

AFTER technical valuations, as the BCCI opened the bids to reveal the owners of the two new IPL teams, they were in for a surprise. According to sources, it got to a point where even BCCI office-bearers' jaws dropped when they opened the sealed envelopes in Dubai on Monday.

Each bid outweighed the other. In a bidding process where Adanis were expected to win comfortably and Glazers (Manchester United owners), All Cargo Logistics and Kotak group were involved, RPSG Ventures Ltd, a company headquartered in Kolkata, sprung the biggest surprise. Their bid for Lucknow was astonishingly high — ₹7,090 crore ($940mn). RPSG Ventures owned the now defunct Pune franchise.

The CVC Capital Partners, headquartered in Luxembourg, was the other surprise. It outbid Adanis and will now own the Ahmedabad team. Their offer stood at ₹5,625 crore ($750 mn). The combined figure is ₹12,715 crore ($1.6bn). To put the values in perspective, when the IPL began in 2008, Mumbai Indians were the costliest franchise at $111.9 mn (₹840 crore at current dollar rate).

The huge sums that were tabled — the lowest being the ₹4,023.99 crore by Glazers — is also a reflection of the brand's growing popularity in the country as well as abroad. From a commercial point of view, it sits along side Premier League, La Liga and National Football League, though in terms of money IPL has a lot of catching up to do.

Though 22 entities had picked the documents, only nine bidders were shortlisted after technical clearance in a meeting held in Dubai. It is understood the BCCI was expecting around ₹8,000 cr from the bids.

Like other major leagues, TV broadcast rights are the major contributor to the IPL's coffers. Currently, the BCCI gets around ₹58 crore per match from broadcast rights. Taking this as an indicator, the broadcast rights that is up for renewal is expected fetch around ₹36,000 crore for 2023-27 period. "The level of interest among the interested parties prove that IPL is among the most sought-after sporting leagues in the world. We had bids from different parts of the world and from parties with diverse portfolios wanting to make a foray into the world of sports," said IPL Governing Council chairman Brijesh Patel.

Flight lands at wrong end of runway at B'gavi airport

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Belagavi

A major mishap was averted after a SpiceJet aircraft, with 30 passengers on board, landed at the wrong end of the runway at the Belagavi airport on Sunday. The pilots later flew the aircraft to Hyderabad after a 26-minute stopover.

Despite the mess-up, flight operations at the airport remained unaffected throughout the day. The Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has launched an inquiry to ascertain the cause for the technical glitch that made the pilots of the Hyderabad-Belagavi flight land on the wrong end of the runway.

DGCA Arun Kumar said the two pilots have been off-rostered and the investigation is on. "We will take further action based on the probe," he added.

SpiceJet stated that the ATC had cleared the aircraft to land on RWY26 at Belgaum, but it landed on RWY08. P7

Little kids return to school, but attendance remains low

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE reluctance of parents and children of classes 1-5 to attend schools offline was apparent with only half (49.49 per cent) of the permitted 50 per cent students coming to schools on Monday, the first day of reopening of physical classes.

D Shashi Kumar, General Secretary, Associated Managements of Primary and Secondary Schools in Karnataka (KAMS), attributed the low attendance to starting blues, lack of transport, and post-festive inertia.

Besides, the education department could gather attendance data from only 39.92 per cent of the 62,032 schools across the state. Department officials said a clearer picture will emerge when all schools submit their attendance details.

Considering it was the first day, education department officials expected primary school students to follow the same trend as noticed among students of classes 6-12, who too had recorded poor attendance when offline classes opened on October 1. But it improved steadily over subsequent days. For Classes 1-5, 100 per cent attendance will be allowed from the first week of November.

With the uncertainty prevailing over reopening of schools offline, many parents — especially in rural areas and a few in urban parts — had not admitted their kids. Besides, some had failed to pay admission fees for the year. On Monday, many were found making a beeline to schools' payment desks or settling the dues online and send their children back to school.

Many children from private, aided and unaided schools returning to their classes a year-and-a-half later were welcomed with 'aratis', chocolates, sweets and savouries. At some schools, teachers had dressed as cartoon characters.

Health dept will chalk out plan to tackle water contamination

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ELEVEN people have died after consuming contaminated water in North Karnataka over the last few weeks, and the state government is finding it challenging to provide clean drinking water in these villages. It has now directed the Health Department to come up with a comprehensive plan to take appropriate measures.

Seven people died at Makarabbi village in Vijayanagar district earlier this month and prior to that Kalaburagi reported two deaths. On Sunday, two more died in Vijayapura district. Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar admitted that drinking water pipelines in many villages are old and some may even have leakages leading to contamination. It is a serious issue and the government will take action, he added.

"Also, villages do not have proper sewerage and solid waste management systems. I have directed the Health Department to come up with a comprehensive plan," he told The New Indian Express on Monday.

After the deaths at Makarabbi village, the government took action against a panchayat official and two engineers and also ordered senior IAS officer Munish Moudgil to prepare a report on reasons for the contamination and those responsible for it. Moudgil presented the report after visiting the village. Based on the findings of the report, the government will soon take action, Ravi Kumar said.

Sources said negligence of officials at the local level was one of the reasons for the contamination and situation getting aggravated. Sewage got mixed with drinking water during the water supply work, but authorities failed to act in time after one person died due to contaminated drinking water.

An expert said better coordination at the village level is key to preventing water contamination. "Officials concerned at the field level should be kept informed about water supply works, so that they can monitor water quality. In some villages, water pipelines are in the middle of the drains that were built later. A small leakage in the pipeline will lead to contamination. Sensitising officials at the village level and timely cleaning of overhead tanks should be made mandatory at all villages," he added.

Mystery of missing labourers in undivided Ballari district

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @Ballari

A 24-year-old youth from Bidar, Shanta Kumar G, working as a labourer at a steel plant in Sandur in Ballari district has gone missing for the last one week. Adding to their distress, Kumar's parents are finding it difficult to file a missing person complaint with the police.

It is not just Kumar, over the last one year, eight complaints of labourers missing have been filed at various police stations in undivided Ballari district. The count is 30 for the last three years.

Since the area houses several heavy industries, particularly from the mining and steel sectors, labourers from different parts of the country come here seeking jobs. Data shows that a majority of the missing labourers are from other states, while many of them have also died due to accidents at the workplace.

Gundappa Gunvamshi, Kumar's father, told The New Indian Express that their elder son, who is the sole breadwinner of the family, came to Ballari to work at the steel plant. On October 15, Kumar's friends informed the family that he was not to be found. "It is hard to imagine life without him," he added, requesting the police to trace him.

A member of the labourers' union said that as there are a lot of job opportunities in Ballari and Vijayanagara districts, which are mining and steel hubs, a large number of workers come from Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Telangana and other states, apart from Karnataka. But most of these industries do not take safety precautions, causing injuries and deaths of labourers, he alleged. "Instead of acting after the accidents, authorities from plants should take precautions to prevent such incidents," he said.

Private schools may switch back to online classes completely

Managements split over starting offline classes for younger students

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

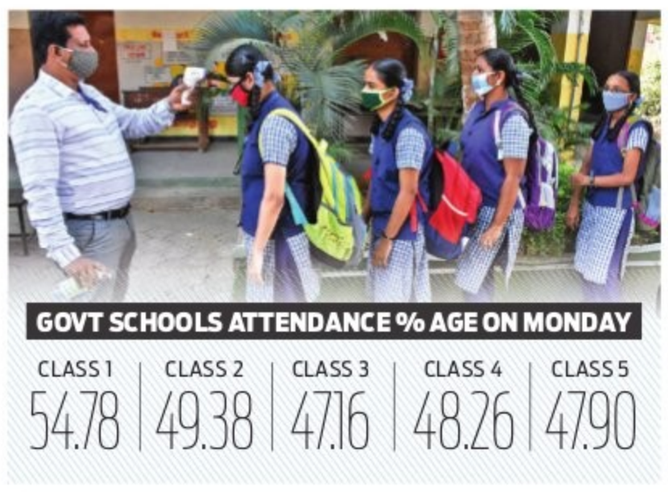
"WE have been told to wash our hands, and I brought my own water bottle from home," said a student of government lower primary school in Bengaluru on Monday.

The state government opened school for classes one to five across the state, more than two months after it started phased reopening of schools in August 21. With this, classes from one to 12 are back in offline mode.

A happy group of students from a government school in Dakshina Kannada was seen cheering when asked about their response to reopening of schools.

Students were seen in close proximity to each other both inside and outside the schools, on streets and in buses. However Chandrashekhar Nugli, secretary, Karnataka State Primary School Teachers Association, denied any violation of Covid norms.

Sania M, a Class 5 student from a government school in the city, was glad to be back, though her mother pushed her. Janet, a class 9 student of a private school, said, "As I am in Class 9, my mother does not want me to have a discontinuity when I enter Class 10."



GOVT SCHOOLS ATTENDANCE % AGE ON MONDAY

CLASS 1	CLASS 2	CLASS 3	CLASS 4	CLASS 5
54.78	49.38	47.16	48.26	47.90

However, private schools are split. While a segment has decided to postpone offline classes for younger students, others have opened. Shashi Kumar, general secretary of Associated Managements of Primary and Secondary Schools in Karnataka, said that a number of schools have opened offline. He agreed that maintaining social distancing is a challenge in government and private schools, but the latter had some restrictions and infrastructure in place to ensure adherence.

A bulk of private schools are considering going back to online mode completely as parents are demanding it and hybrid classes are impractical considering the limited number of teachers, said Mansoor Ali Khan, general secretary, Management of Independent CBSE Schools Association. "In private schools, just 20 per cent of students are opting for offline classes," he said, and added that unless schools see at least 75 percent offline attendance, they may continue with online classes.

No midday meals for primary kids

At Kaup in Udupi district, Shabarimala Ayyappa Samaja held a programme, 'Geleyare Shalege Horadona Banni', under the leadership of local MLA Lalaji R Mendon. Beating of chende, blowing the clarinet and dances of fancy dolls were organised in some schools to motivate the children.

But the primary school kids could not get mid-day meals, which have been started only for higher primary and high school students. Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh, who visited schools in Shivamogga district, said mid-day meals will be started for primary kids too from November 1.

Despite teachers' efforts to entertain the children, the normal pre-Covid buzz was missing at schools. Remaining safe from the infection remained prime on the minds of parents and children. Parents dropped their children to schools in private transport or autorickshaws without availing services of school vans for fear of their kids contracting the disease.

Despite the relatively low overall attendance, some schools reported healthy numbers. Vinay Kattimani, a teacher at the Government Primary School at Nainegali village near Bagalkot, said, "Over 90 per cent of students attended classes on the first day. We welcomed them with sweets and chocolates. Even parents were happy to send their children back to schools. Instead of starting with the syllabus, revision classes were conducted to bring them up to date."

Srishail Biradar, Deputy Director, Department of Public Instructions, Bagalkot, said they found that many students had lost their learning ability. "Most of them have forgotten basic language skills," he said.

'Govt schools need security guards'

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

NO sooner had children gone back to school than they are being pushed into the illegal business of drugs. Government schools, which lack security guards monitoring the movement of children, are now turning into hubs of crime.

A recent video shows children being forced to smoke beedi and also become suppliers or small-time dealers to procure drugs. This incident was reported by former corporator M Srikanth of Devasandra ward, who told TNIE that miscreants had abused and ill-treated a group of schoolchildren. The incident took place on Saturday, following which police registered a case and BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta was told to ensure there is sufficient security in schools.

Another former corporator and BBMP education wing official said since schools were closed for more than one year and most of them were left unattended, some portions had turned into dens for smoking and drinking. This continues even now, and parents have pointed this out to officials.

"To ensure safety of children in school, security guards should be deployed. Teachers cannot keep track of those who come in and go out. Expecting children to be vigilant is not possible either. Also, keeping the pandemic and health of children in mind, security staff should be deployed," said the official.

Government schools have not employed security guards for many decades, and officials say there is no provision for such a post either.

Prasanna Kumar M, Director, Public Instruction, said the safety of schools is overseen by the headmaster, physical education teacher, Group D employees and teachers. There is no night security as schools are shut. There are around 52,000 government schools in Bengaluru. Gupta said the matter will be investigated and discussed with the education section of BBMP.

'Palike engineers swindled money'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER Mayor N R Ramesh has once again pointed out anomalies in the management of lakes, construction and treatment of water from stormwater drains and sewage lines. He has blamed the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) engineers for swindling crores of rupees and polluting the water bodies.

This time, he quoted the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) report, where it said that the BBMP chief engineers in 2016 quoted a bill of Rs 62.97 crore for making sure untreated sewage doesn't enter lakes in Bommanahalli and RR Nagar, but in reality, nothing changed.

He said, "When the auditors sought files, the engineers reasoned that the files were missing and brushed the matter aside. Later in 2019, the issue came to light again, when the engineers showed a bill on the same case of Rs 94 lakh. This caught the attention of the auditors again and they questioned the BBMP that if the file was missing, how could the arrears be calculated and quoted. The CAG is said to have written to the BBMP Chief Commissioner around three months back, but still nothing has happened."

Ramesh said that this was not the first time BBMP engineers, along with contractors, swindled crores of taxpayers' money.

When reporters questioned BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta regarding the issue, he said that the matter is under investigation and they are trying to ascertain how these happened.

BDA demolishes one of the illegally-constructed commercial buildings at Somashettyhalli on Monday | EXPRESS

MLA protests as BDA demolishes structures in Karanth Layout

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) on Monday demolished four commercial structures and three sheds at Somashettyhalli that had been built in violation of the Supreme Court order on Dr K Shivaram Karanth Layout. The 10-hour demolition operation carried out after prior intimation to the owners was marked by high drama with T Dasarahalli MLA R Manjunath and his supporters trying to stall it.

A three-storeyed building, three two-storeyed buildings and three sheds were razed. The demolition drive began at 7 am and ended by 5 pm, said a BDA official. Nearly 200 policemen were deployed at the site.

A highly placed BDA source said, "These were commercial constructions that had come up in the last ten months. The SC had directed that any building constructed after August 3, 2018 on land notified for the layout would be deemed illegal. Those who built these structures had put up commercial buildings in an area marked as a residential layout."

Local residents started resisting soon after the demolition commenced. There was more drama a couple of hours later. "Local MLA Manjunath arrived with a large number of supporters and demanded that the demolition be stopped. There were angry exchanges for over half-an-hour. We finally convinced the MLA that we were following SC orders," said an official. The MLA and his supporters were made to leave by cops.

Another official said notices were issued to the owners a few days ago about the demolition. The demolished buildings were on Survey numbers 52/1, 54/5 and 55/2.

This is the third such demolition in Dr Karanth Layout in the last four months. BDA officials said more such demolitions are in the offing. "Nearly 500 unauthorised structures spread across 16 villages have been identified in a survey conducted by BDA with Somashettyhalli and Lakshmipura topping in the violations list," an official said.

I have discussed this issue with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. I have asked him to take a decision only after holding a meeting with the residents of the layout

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

26th October: To continue yesterday's discussion, does anyone have any theories about how astrology works? Some astronomers think it's all due to the way electro-magnetic fields are affected by the Sun during birth and the first weeks of life. It's a fascinating idea, one which may become clearer as we discover more about the Sun's energy.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Continue to press on with what you know must be done, and don't be put off your stride by people who see it as their divinely-inspired task to get in your way, wind you up and generally drive you to distraction! There are, by the way, big choices in the offing, so get ready.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Although there's still a good deal of background tension in the air, you seem particularly well set up. Your stars are basically favourable, and there seems to be little pressure on you to do anything against your will. If you're facing family arrangements, you can put off the inevitable for another few days.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Throughout every area of life, it's a ques-tion of dealing with fundamentals. Everything you do should have a beginning, a middle - and an end. Deviate from this regular, ordered pattern and you'll run the risk of coming unstuck. But stay as you are and you may miss a major opportunity! You can always leave the final choice for another few months.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There are decisions to be made, but first there are discussions to be held. You should know by now that the moment you rush ahead without consulting others, conflict invariably follows. It's time you broke this pattern and gave up your tendency to over-react!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
When it comes to finance, there are two rules at the moment. Where your own personal money is concerned, pay the most intense attention possible to every single detail. Where joint rearrangements are concerned, place the emphasis on getting on with people and reaching agreements.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your romantic stars are powerful, but partners may have the edge when it comes to a battle of wills. You may soon be obliged to accept an unhelpful situation as a fait accompli. At least, for now. In another couple of months, when circumstances have moved on, you'll be able to correct the situation in your favour.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The accent is on pleasure over the coming days, and the best way to personal fulfilment is through devoting extra time to your creative Libran skills. Ideally, you should now be on holiday rather than at work! If you feel a little shaky, you can rely on a partner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Excellent prospects arise largely from the fact that you're left to pursue your own interests. There's no need to give in to the nine-to-five slog, and every chance to break out of your rut. Yet family pressures may very soon reach bursting point.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Sort out your priorities and organise yourself to fit in a useful chat with a friend or someone you look up to. You may receive unsolicited advice which could help you out of a domestic impasse. Yet what is said today may be contradicted tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Your energy should be high at present but, if you're one of those Capricorns who is feeling under the weather, the reason lies in your unhealthy lifestyle. The solution is to cut out all those bad habits. Public pressures may be easing, but you have to tie up loose ends first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
If life has been a little confusing, you're entitled to blame Neptune, ruler of illusion, which has been making a subtle aspect to your sign. However, romantic undercurrents are steadily growing stronger and you should now be much more sure of your feelings.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your short-term plans will soon receive a boost from some unexpected good news, although a slight adjustment will almost certainly be advisable. If you're taking major decisions it's imperative to consider all the angles - and to take whatever time you need.

TACKLING SMA- PART 2

IT'S A LONG WAIT FOR LIFE-SAVING DRUGS

Need approval from government; only paediatric patients without antibodies to the drug Zolgensma can take it

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

A lot goes on behind the doors of India's only paediatric neuromuscular centre, where the world's most expensive one-time drug Zolgensma (worth Rs 16 crore) and Spinraza, which costs Rs 78 lakh per vial and is needed for a lifetime, are administered to rare disease patients suffering from Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA).

While the company that manufactures Zolgensma offers it for free to some patients in the world on a lottery system, NGO Direct Relief sponsors Spinraza through their compassionate access programme to select patients. The application process is traumatic to go through for a patient's family, said Dr Ann Agnes Mathew, a neuromuscular specialist and visiting consultant at Bangalore Baptist Hospital. To even know if the patient is eligible for Zolgensma, a test needs to be done to check for any antibodies against the drug, as it is a live virus being injected.

"Only one lab in the world, located in the Netherlands, does this test, costing Rs 72,000. The company that offers Zolgensma on a lottery, pays for this. If the patient has no immunity to the drug, then he or she is gene therapy ready," Dr Ann said. As both these drugs are not approved in India, the hospital has to get case-wise permission from the government on compassionate grounds, stating that the child will not live without this medicine. "Both the medicines have to be imported in -60 degrees of dry ice, and kept at 2 to 8 degrees. Zolgensma must be used within 14 days while Spinraza can be kept for longer," said Dr Madhuri Maganthi, Consultant (Paediatrician & Specialisation in Paediatric Genetics) and HoD at Baptist. Many children die waiting for this medicine. Even after the drugs are administered, the woes of these children do not end. As their chest muscles are weak, they cannot breathe. Some undergo a tracheostomy and require artificial support with a BiPAP machine to help them breathe. As they are unable to swallow easily, they don't get adequate nutrition, and food can often go into the lungs, causing pneumonia. Owing to this, a gastrostomy is done to feed directly into the stomach. Zolgensma gene therapy can damage the liver for which steroids have to be given too.

"Two weeks after a baby from Coimbatore got Zolgensma, he stopped breathing. We were able to intervene through surgery and save the child. Hence, children cannot go home immediately after being administered these drugs," Dr Ann explained. Supportive care is often beyond the means of poor patients, for which fundraising is done, and the hospital too absorbs the cost for deserving patients.

HC seeks details of pvt hosps charging excess from patients

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the state government to furnish details of steps taken against private hospitals who have charged in excess of the actual bill for treating Covid-19 patients referred by the government, and also for refunding the excess amount to patients.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after the state government furnished the list of private hospitals against whom it has received complaints for charging excess amount.

The list was placed before the court in compliance with directives issued on the last date of hearing. According to the list, complaints were received through the Grievance Redressal Committee against 57 private hospitals for collecting extra amount from Covid government referred patients.

Also, 1,325 complaints have been received from call centres against private hospitals for charging excess. Apart from this, 48 complaints were received against private hospitals for collecting extra amount from Covid-19 walk-in private patients.

The state government has stated that grievances received at the state level are being forwarded to the Deputy Commissioner of the respective district, and the Chief Commissioner of BBMP in Bengaluru, for necessary action.

No entry for int'l travellers sans Covid test

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has made it mandatory for international passengers from some countries which are at Covid risk, to undergo Covid-19 testing on arrival at Karnataka's airports, irrespective of their vaccination status. A circular was issued on Monday by the State government, on the advice of the Technical Advisory Committee, and in compliance with the Centre's decision.

Travellers from the UK South Africa, Brazil, Bangladesh, Botswana, China, Mauritius, New Zealand and Zimbabwe will need to follow additional measures on arrival in Karnataka.

The circular says passengers from these countries will have to be in home quarantine for seven days, and undergo Covid testing on Day 8. They must also compulsorily upload Covid-negative RT-PCR reports in the Air Suvidha portal, not older than 72 hours, ahead of travel with a self-declaration form.

The order stated that before boarding, travellers will be provided the dos and don'ts along with tickets, by the airlines/agencies concerned. The order directed in-flight crew to ensure that Covid appropriate behaviour is followed. If any passenger reports Covid symptoms during flight, he/she shall be isolated as per protocol.

If a traveller is coming from a country with which India has reciprocal arrangements for mutual acceptance of WHO-approved Covid-19 vaccines, then if they are fully vaccinated, they shall be allowed to leave the airport and self-monitor their health for 14 days. If partially/not vaccinated, travellers need to undertake various measures like submission of sample for Covid test at the point of arrival, after which they will be allowed to leave the airport, home quarantine for seven days, re-test on the eighth day of arrival in India, and if negative, further self-monitor their health for the next seven days.

NKP Vaidyar: Curative powers that helped bring succour to multitudes

When legendary Ayurveda physician N K Padmabhan Vaidyar or NKP Vaidyar as he was popularly called passed away in August 2013, an eventful life spent effectively curing the most challenging health conditions had passed into eternity's bosom. But, the futurist that NKP Vaidyar was, he started treatment-oriented N K P Vaidyar Liver Speciality Clinic & NUPAL, manufacturers of much-in-demand liver tonic Kamilari, he ensured that the baton would pass into able hands

Vaidya Vachaspathy, the late, N K Padmabhan Vaidyar, Founder, NUPAL Ayurveda

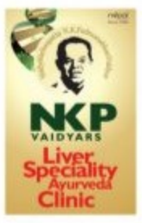
The Torch Bearer

Though the mantle of carrying forward NKP's rich legacy fell on Dr T P Sachith Roy, a widely respected Ayurveda practitioner and integral part of the research and development (R&D) of Nupal Remedies Pvt Ltd, he has performed the role with a flourish. Since 1994 when he entered the profession, Dr Roy has been fired up by a zeal to further enhance the health of mankind. His ability to treat even the most challenging types of liver disease has shown that he is his legendary father's son for nothing. His high rate of success in curing patients has earned Dr Roy all round applause from doctors belonging to all streams of medicine.



Even as he continues to provide treatment for those suffering from various afflictions, Dr T P Sachith Roy came up with a miracle cure for alopecia(pronounced alopesha). Despite the condition, which leads to loss of hair on the head, eyebrows, mustache, beard and the body, affecting a sizeable section of the population worldwide, including both men and women, there is no documented evidence of an effective treatment for the condition until now. In allopathy, alopecia is seen as a condition caused by a malfunction of the body's auto immune system. But Dr Roy believes that unless the trigger for the condition is dealt with, it can never be reversed, meaning a scary prospect — forced to lead a traumatic experience minus the crowning glory that enhances the human face. According to Dr Roy, the treatment he prescribes includes both oral medication and as external applications. Also, there are restrictions on the nature of diet. The patients are also advised to eat mostly home cooked food and abstain from consuming citrous fruits, tamarind and fried foodstuff. Not only that, progress of patients is carefully monitored and they are asked to WhatsApp four to five pictures of their hair growth, shot from various angles every week. Besides, they are required to visit Dr Roy's clinic at Kadavanthra once in a month.

Revolutionary treatment for alopecia

Living testaments of miracle medicine. First-person account of those, who after enduring the hair-raising experience caused by alopecia, rediscovered the sheer joy of living with their mane restored

'He helped me regain confidence'

Sukanya, 29, of Kodungallur, seen in the picture was in a state of sheer despair after she started losing her hair. According to the woman from Kodungallur, she simply did not know what to do and which doctor to consult for getting a remedy for her condition. Initially it started as small patch, perhaps the size of a fingertip, but within two weeks she had lost her entire hair. Sukanya recalled the harrowing period she had to go through on account of the condition. "I was in pretty low spirits, not knowing what to do. I consulted several doctors, including some leading skin specialists, but none of them could give me an assurance. That was when I got to know of Dr Sachith Roy from a YouTube video."

"By then, I had become completely bald and I sported a cap to hide my bald palate while travelling to meet Dr Roy in Ernakulam. I sobbed all along the way, thinking of my misfortune. I met Dr Roy, who put me on the treatment programme. Frankly, even after meeting him, I was not confident that it would work. But a month or so after I met Dr Roy, there was a discernible improvement in my condition— there appeared a dark patch on the scalp— which was the sprouting of new hair. That is when I really started believing in Dr Roy. Most importantly, he has helped win back my confidence."

A beauty expert tethering on the verge of baldness. There could be few worst-case scenarios rivalling it, but that is precisely what Renu of Ernakulam found herself in. Recounting the traumatic experience, the 32-year-old said that she was horrified on seeing her hair falling like nine pins. Originally from central Travancore, she had relocated to Ernakulam after marriage. Though she had noticed slight hair fall earlier after relocation, Renu believed that chlorinated water was to blame. But soon enough, her hair had grown noticeably thin. "My husband used to shower in the same chlorinated water, but did not have any issue. And he too noticed my hair fall and asked me to seek medical help. In the meantime, I got to know of Dr Sachith Roy from a YouTube video. And I went and met him. What I found most appreciable about him was the confidence he exuded in his mode of treatment. Within a month of starting his programme, the change was discernible and my hair started regaining its thickness. Now, it has nearly grown back to that of the pre-alopecia days,"she says with a huge sense of relief. Most importantly, Renu said that she will not feel unduly concerned, even if there were a relapse. Because, according to her, there is the reassuring presence of Dr Sachith Roy whom she can turn to.

Rajeiv Kumar, 30, Mannarkkad

One day after taking my evening bath, I was combing my hair. Looking into the mirror, I was horrified to see that the hair on the right side of my head had gone. Until then, I never suffered from any hair-related problems or any health issues. After I told this to some of my colleagues — I work at the Rajiv Gandhi Indoor Stadium at Kadavanthra in Kochi — they suggested that I consult Dr Sachith Roy who has his clinic nearby. And I had seen him pass by several times and also knew that he was a reputed Ayurveda physician. Then I went and met Dr Roy at his clinic and after examining me he made the diagnosis. According to him, I suffered from alopecia and he prescribed the treatment programme. However, he advised me to apply the medicinial oil all over my head rather than applying it only on the area where I had lost my hair. Within a month, hair started growing there and now it is fully covered.

Reshma Sijin, 30, Chalakudy

It was in March 2020 that I started losing my hair. The condition was so bad that I consulted several dermatologists for the patches, which appeared on my head. Though they managed to diagnose the condition and even put me on drugs, there was hardly any result. And by July 2020, I had lost nearly my entire hair. I felt quite upset and frankly did not know what to do to. That was when I happened to see a YouTube video posted by a person suffering from the same condition, who had been fully cured by Dr Sachith Roy. I started his treatment in September 2020 and within two months, the results began to show. Now, I have hair which is two-and-a-half inches long. I have been under his treatment for 13 months now and Dr Roy has promised to restore my entire hair within another six months. Of course, I update him on the progress achieved, through WhatsApp posts of my hair growth every month.

Shefeeq P, 28, of Thrissur

It started with a couple of patches on my beard some three years ago. And the hair in an area roughly the size of middle finger had been lost. Then the condition spread to my hair, eyebrows and the entire body. As a result, I lost my entire hair. Even my proposed wedding had to be called off on account of this. Around that time I came across a YouTube video posted by a person, who was cured of the same condition by Dr Sachith Roy, From the details given in the video, I contacted Dr Roy and he asked me to meet him at his clinic. After examining me, Dr Roy diagnosed it as a case of alopecia and I started treatment. Now, Im almost fully cured, my entire hair has been restored. My confidence has been restored and I'm extremely happy at the turn of events.

Bommai & Co in poll mode leaves Soudha corridors empty

As CM, ministers get busy campaigning in Sindagi, Hanagal, governance takes a hit

Empty corridors of Vidhana Soudha greet Shankar Rama Warnekar (87) from Gokarna in Uttara Kannada district. The senior citizen has been visiting the seat of power for the last four days to meet the Revenue Minister, but in vain | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

WITH just four days left for the bypolls in Sindagi and Hanagal, close to 20 ministers of the Basavaraj Bommai Cabinet, including the Chief Minister himself, are campaigning for BJP candidates in the two constituencies, leaving the corridors of Vidhana Soudha empty. The bypolls are scheduled to be held on October 30 and the entire BJP state leadership is going all out to ensure a win — Bommai's first electoral test after assuming office. The situation is likely to continue till the end of public campaigning on October 28.

Barring a few ministers like R Ashoka and Kota Srinivas Poojary, 18 to 20 ministers are campaigning in the two constituencies located in North Karnataka. While Animal Husbandry Minister Prabhu Chavan is campaigning for BJP candidate in neighbouring Maharashtra for the Deglur bypoll, a few other ministers, who aren't part of the BJP's Hanagal and Sindagi bypoll campaign team, are not in Bengaluru. With ministers not in the Soudha, sources say the administration has almost come to a standstill. Several people, who visit Vidhana Soudha every day to meet the ministers, are often turned back.

Shankar Rama Warnekar (87) from Gokarna in Uttara Kannada has been coming to Vidhana Soudha for the last four days to meet the Revenue Minister. "But I am yet to meet him and get my work done," he rued.

Speaking to TNIE, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, however, said, "I also campaigned in Hanagal and Sindagi. I used to clear the files there... even my colleagues do the same. Us campaigning in no way has hampered administration."

The BJP has made ministers also in charge of a few panchayats, where they have been camping day and night knocking on the doors of voters and even taking part in the political rallies garnering support for the party candidates — Ramesh Bhusnur (Sindagi) and Shivaraj Sajjanar (Hanagal). Bommai, who was in Hanagal last week, is campaigning for Bhusanur in Sindagi this week. Along with him, ministers C C Patil, V Somanna, Byrathi Basavaraj, Shashikala Jolle, Govind Karjol, K S Eshwarappa and others are at Sindagi. Ministers Shivaram Hebbar, S T Somashekar, Munirathna, B C Patil, B Sriramulu, Halappa Achar, Shankar Patil Munenakoppa, Dr K Sudhakar, and Murugesh Nirani are at Hanagal. Some, like Home Minister Araga Jnanendra and Ashoka, are back from campaigning. Ministers who are not at Hanagal and Sindagi but are outside Bengaluru are Narayana Gowda (Bidar), M T B Nagaraj (Hosakote), Dr C N Ashwath Narayan (Mysuru), Umesh Katti (Belagavi) and B C Nagesh (Shivamogga).

A few ministers, however, expressed their displeasure over campaigning for several days. "There was no need for ministers to campaign for 4-5 days. We also have other work...but we were told to focus on the bypolls," a minister on condition of anonymity told TNIE.

GOVT WORK NOT HIT: CM

CM Basavaraj Bommai rubbished the Congress' charge that Vidhana Soudha has been locked as the entire Cabinet, including the CM, are busy campaigning in Sindagi and Hanagal. "It is far from the truth. Work hard in areas where BJP is weak in Sindagi: CM to ministers

MAHESH M GOUDAR @ Vijayapura

THE BJP will have to concentrate on weak areas in Sindagi, if it hopes to win the bypoll, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai told his cabinet colleagues at a closed-door meeting here on Monday. Before departing to Hubballi, Bommai held a meeting with ministers Govind Karjol, V Somanna, Byrati Basavaraj, C C Patil and Shashikala Jolle, besides elected members Arun Shahpur, Basavaraj Mattimud, Doddanagouda Patil and Laxman Savadi, who are in charge of Sindagi segment.

The five cabinet ministers have been appointed as incharge for each zilla panchayat constituency that falls under Sindagi segment. Bommai campaigned in as many as 12 villages on Sunday. CC Patil told TNIE, "The CM has his own responsibilities. He has collected the intelligence report of each ZP constituency of Sindagi segment. He pointed out the strong and weak areas and directed the ministers to campaign intensively for the remaining two days." "He also told ministers and elected members not to be under the illusion that they would win the poll, but to work hard to ensure victory. It is a strong JDS fort and we are not taking it lightly," added Patil.

According to sources, "A couple of ministers have highlighted the reasons behind the poor response to the party in a couple of ZP constituencies. The ministers have also discussed the poll strategy with the CM to tackle weak zones. The CM has directed all cabinet ministers not to leave the district until polling is over," said a source.

On JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda accusing BJP and Congress of conspiring to finish regional parties, Bommai said, "We are only concentrating on building the BJP. We don't bother about other parties."

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai campaigns for party candidate Shivaraj Sajjanar at Yalavatti village in Hanagal taluk on Monday

New social engineering emerging in Hanagal: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hubballi

AMID a steady drizzle, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday campaigned extensively for Bharatiya Janata Party's Hanagal candidate Shivaraj Sajjanar at Yalavatti, Karagudari, Baichavalli, Hullatii and Shigihalli villages of the taluk.

Hitting out at Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president D K Shivakumar for accusing the BJP leaders of distributing money to woo voters, Bommai said it was the Congress' culture to win elections using money power. "We get our votes by winning the confidence of the electorate," Bommai said.

While addressing a rally at Baichavalli, Bommai said a new kind of social engineering was emerging in Hanagal that will benefit the BJP candidate. "While the Congress indulges in caste politics, members of all sections of society have come out in support of the BJP because the late MLA, C M Udasi, helped the needy of all communities," Bommai said. When he asked the people whether Shivakumar had visited Hanagal in the past, when he was the water resources minister, the gathering said, "No!"

Bommai accused the Congress leaders, including Siddaramaiah, of targeting him personally and not talking about the development of Hanagal.

Lawyers file plaint against leaders of Hindu groups

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Bengaluru-based All India Lawyers' Association for Justice (AILAJ) has filed a complaint with the Director General and Inspector General of Police, and the Tumakuru Superintendent of Police against "communal and provocative statements" made in the public in Tumakuru on Friday by two persons. They said that the statements made by Basavaraj, state convener, Vishwa Hindu Parishad, and Ullas, state secretary, Hindu Jagaran Vedike, amount to incitement to violence.

The lawyers further demanded that action be taken under IPC Sections, 143, 145, 153, 153A, 153B and 290.

Maitreyi Krishnan, coconvener, AILAJ, said that the speeches will result in communal disharmony and disruption of public order. "It provides a fiat to religious extremist outfits to utilise vigilante violence to further their communal goals. The incident entirely upsets the fabric of secularism and fraternity in society...," she added.

The incident, if left unpunished and unchecked, is an implicit endorsement to extremist groups to carry out vigilante justice, they said, adding that the statements made by Basavaraj and Ullas result in denial of equal citizenship to persons and lead to discrimination, violence and social apartheid.

FIGHTING REBELLION

Gowda, HDK take break from bypoll, prop up new face for Gubbi

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Tumakuru

THE JDS leadership, which is battling attrition in its ranks, on Monday sought to send out a strong message by introducing a new face for the Gubbi Assembly constituency ahead of the 2023 polls. Former Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy introduced B S Nagaraju as the party's candidate over sitting MLA S R Srinivas at a mega rally held on Monday.

Kumaraswamy, who was busy campaigning for the Hanagal and Sindagi assembly bypolls in north Karnataka, took a break to take part in the party's rally in the old Mysuru region which is the party's stronghold. Party supremo H D Deve Gowda too returned from campaigning and rested at the Tumkur University (TU) guest house where he took stock of the developments in Gubbi. The duo flew back to Vijayapura by a chartered helicopter later in the evening.

While hitting out at former minister S R Srinivas, Kumaraswamy turned emotional saying some leaders, who were groomed by the party, have betrayed it and even started badmouthing the JDS. He claimed that he encouraged Srinivas when the latter stood as a rebel candidate and won against the party's official candidate G S Shivananjappa, who was Deve Gowda's choice, in 2004.

"Overlooking former minister late B Satyanarayana's seniority, I inducted Srinivas into the cabinet in the JDS-Congress alliance government," he claimed. He also alleged that Srinivas had joined hands with rebel Congress leader K N Rajanna to defeat Deve Gowda in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

"If not for the blessings of my parents I would have died during my trip to Israel. Ignoring my health problems, I travelled across the state to organise the party and Deve Gowda has also been working hard even at his age", he remarked and broke down.

Meanwhile, Gowda hinted that the JDS may close its doors on Srinivas. "Soon after my defeat in the LS polls from Tumakuru, I tried to meet Srinivas, but in vain as he did not let me visit his house. He used to be the last-bencher in party meetings and would never speak up," he remarked.

BJP is anti-reservation, says Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Vijayapura

CONGRESS leader Siddaramaiah on Monday hit out at the Bharatiya Janata Party over the issue of reservation and said the saffron party never believed in the Constitution. "The BJP does not give importance to Backward Classes. The Congress, however, treats everybody equally and believes in the Constitution and democratic values," he said.

With just three days left for the public campaigning to end, Siddaramaiah has been holding meetings with leaders and people of various communities in Sindagi constituency. He has already chaired meetings with members of the minorities, Backward Classes and some sections of the Schedule Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

While addressing the people of the Banjara community on Monday, Siddaramaiah said, "It is not wrong if the exploited unite and express their grievances at a convention. It is not casteism. If participating in such conferences makes one casteist, then I am a casteist."

He said as chief minister, he set aside Rs 200 crore for the welfare of the Banjaras, and the BJP has now reduced it to Rs 10 crore. "Under the Land Reforms Act, my government had given land to thousands of families. I have treated all communities equally in my tenure. Is this casteism?" he questioned.

During a meeting with the members of the Talwar community, Siddaramaiah said the BJP has always neglected them. "Even though the Union Government has given its nod to accord ST status to the Talwar community, the State Government is refusing to give it," Siddaramaiah charged. He also urged people not to take part in the convention organised for the Talwar community by the BJP.

He further said the fight in the ensuing bypolls was between the Congress and the BJP. "The JDS is not in the race. It is the B-team of the BJP. Leaders of both those parties are afraid of me. They want to finish me off politically. But people are on my side," the former chief minister added.

Hanagal contest is between CM, our candidate: DKS

BENGALURU: Congress state president D K Shivakumar on Monday taunted the BJP saying that the contest in the Hanagal segment is not between the BJP and Congress candidates, but between Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Congress candidate Sreenivas Mane. " I am 200 per cent sure we will win in both Hanagal and Sindagi," he told reporters here. AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala said, "Everyone knows which party is working behind the curtains to help whom," alluding to the JDS. He also alleged that the BJP is distributing money to voters in Hanagal and Sindagi. Responding to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's claim that the BJP has already won the bypolls, Shivakumar said the BJP is in power and hence, the CM is making such remarks. "Normally, the CM goes once or twice to campaign in bypolls, but Bommai himself camping there shows how anxious they are about the results," he remarked. ENS

LAST 3 DAYS OF CAMPAIGN MAY SEE MONEY FLOW, FEARS GOWDA

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Tumakuru

FORMER PM and JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda on Monday expressed suspicion over huge cash flows into the Sindagi Assembly segment by the BJP and Congress in the last three days of campaigning. This may affect the JDS candidate's prospects, he felt. Bypolls in Sindagi and Hanagal will be held on October 30.

Speaking to TNIE, Gowda, who had camped there for a week, felt that the party candidate Nazia Shakeel Ahmed Angadi has a good chance as people have started talking about his contribution towards irrigating the entire segment when he was chief minister. As PWD minister, Gowda said he was instrumental in the construction of 845 bridges across the Krishna river in Vijayapura. "The JDS has no financial backup like BJP and Congress. I have covered 25 major villages and received good response from the electorate. I will be there until October 27 and I don't know what will happen in the last three days," he said. Asked whether he will take it to the notice of the Election Commission, he felt it would not help.

"Rivals may say we have no base in north Karnataka. But why did Congress poach the late M C Managuli's son, whom we had groomed", he questioned. "Look at the developments across the country, especially Punjab. The Congress is sinking. If we JDS leaders get united in Karnataka, we can emerge as a strong force," he said while hinting that the party leadership had persuaded Chamundeshwari MLA G T Deve Gowda not to quit the party. "My grandson and G T Deve Gowda's son Harish met and dined together. Harish has good prospects in politics. If mistakes have happened, we should set them right and move on," he said.

'Politics is losing its sanctity'

HASSAN: Expressing displeasure over the verbal attacks by leaders of different parties during the bypoll campaign, Gowda said they should stop airing nasty statements for cheap publicity. He said that politics is losing its sanctity. He claimed that he had never attack any leader individually under any circumstances. While stating that the party candidates had good public support in Hanagal and Sindagi, he said the outcome of the bypoll will only impact the Congress.

HC SEEKS STATE'S RESPONSE ON SURVEY OF CHURCHES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday issued notice to the state government on a public interest litigation filed by the People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL) against survey of churches in the state, alleging that it is a violation of the right to equality and privacy.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum issued notice to the Chief Secretary and Director of Minorities, while directing the government advocate to get instructions on the issue.

Senior counsel Prof Ravivarma Kumar argued that ordering a survey of churches is violation of rights and also persecution of Christians in Karnataka, as only one particular religion has been selected. The court said it is only collection of data about churches and not of Christians, that too in only one district, Ramanagara.

"It can be welfare of the community. How can you say it is violation of rights of Christians? Let them collect data. There is nothing on record to show that in any manner they are going to persecute Christians," the court observed.

The senior counsel replied that churches are run by Christians. The survey is being done throughout the state, at the behest of an MLA. It was directed to urgently prepare a list of persons of Hindu origin who have converted to Christianity... Let them (government) not precipitate the matter, he argued. The court noted that the government should submit its response.

New law can be misused: Archbishop

ENS @ Bengaluru

Expressing apprehension that the proposed anti-conversion bill could become an instrument of oppression if certain fringe elements take the law into their hands, Christian community head Archbishop Peter Machado on Monday urged CM Basavaraj Bommai to drop the bill.

He questioned why the Backward Class and Minority Welfare department had ordered a survey of religious personnel, places of worship and institutions of only the Christian community, and requested that the "discriminatory order" be withdrawn. "If Christians are rampantly converting Hindus, why are our numbers still 1.87 per cent? When Census data is available with the government, this will be a futile exercise. The anti-conversion law will only make all hell break loose."

Archbishop Machado said there are distressing results due to such laws in other parts of the country. "The Christian community opposes the proposed anti-conversion bill in one voice. What is the need for such an exercise when freedom of religion is guaranteed under Article 25 and 26 of the Constitution?" he asked. "Some sporadic incidents should not be referred to show the entire Christian community in bad light." It may be recalled that Bommai had recently said the government was considering bringing in a law against religious conversion either by force or through inducement. BJP-ruled states like UP, HP and MP have already introduced laws to prevent forcible religious conversion.

Duronto Express leaves late to help sick girl

BENGALURU: In a bid to attend to the medical needs of a six-year-old girl who was to travel by Duronto Express to Howrah, the departure of the train was delayed by 29 minutes at Yesvantpur station on Sunday morning. This is a display of humanitarianism by Railway officials. According to an eyewitness Kedarnath Reddy, "A girl was brought from hospital to the station to take this train. She seemed to develop breathing problems. She was put on a stretcher and provided breathing apparatus. Only after her breathing normalised, she was taken aboard the train and it left."

Panel to decide max water level at Mullaperiyar: SC

Top court directs authorities in TN, Kerala to interact with each other

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday sought response of the supervisory committee of the over-a-century-old Mullaperiyar dam on the immediate need to specify its maximum water level. The court also directed authorities in Tamil Nadu and Kerala to interact with each other, and asked the committee to decide on the appropriate water level by Wednesday.

The bench comprising Justices AM Khanwilkar and CT Ravikumar was hearing two writ petitions filed by Kerala-based parties seeking urgent directions to restrict the water level in the dam, managed by TN. The petitioners submitted that because of heavy rains in the region, the water level in the dam has gone up and people's lives are at stake.

Advocate G Prakash, appearing for Kerala, said the water level should not be raised beyond 139 feet, as was directed by the apex court in August 2018 when the state was hit by floods. However, Advocate V Krishnamurthy, appearing for TN, said the water level as of morning was at 137.2 feet and stated, as per earlier judgments, TN is entitled to keep the water level at 142 feet. He added the discharge from the dam was greater than the inflow, and there was less likelihood for rains in Idukki district of Kerala as per the Met department's forecast for the next five days. Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan has already written to his TN counterpart MK Stalin on the issue, he said, adding the situation was being closely monitored.

"Everyone should act seriously and sincerely. This is something to do with lives. Somebody's lives and property will be at risk. This is not a political arena where you can debate. We direct all the authorities concerned to interact immediately on urgent basis and the committee to take a firm decision on the maximum water level to be maintained in the dam," the bench said.

Kerala CM warns of action for spreading 'lies'

T'Puram: Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan has warned that legal action will be taken against those who create panic over the Mullaperiyar dam through social media. Responding to a calling attention motion by Udumbanchola MLA and former minister M M Mani in the Assembly on Monday, Pinarayi said there was no cause for concern over the 126-year-old dam at present. "A section of people are giving the impression through social media that the dam is in danger and that lakhs of people are going to die. Strict legal action will be taken against such false propaganda," he said. Pinarayi said the state wants a new dam. However the Centre does not support this stance.

Northeast monsoon is officially here

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA
@ Chennai

THE Indian Meteorological Department on Monday has announced the onset of northeast monsoon (NEM) and the season's first low pressure area, forming in Bay of Bengal, is expected to bring heavy rainfall to Tamil Nadu. Chennai and neighbouring coastal districts may receive heavy falls on October 28-29.

"In view of significant reduction in rainfall activity over most parts of the country, the southwest monsoon has withdrawn from the entire country today. Simultaneously, with the setting in of northeasterly winds in the lower tropospheric levels, the northeast monsoon rains have commenced over Tamil Nadu, Puducherry and Karaikal area, and adjoining areas," said S Balachandran, Deputy Director General of Meteorology at Regional Meteorological Centre.

On the new weather system brewing in the Bay, the weathermen said a cyclonic circulation is likely to develop over southeast Bay of Bengal and neighbourhood by Tuesday. "It is likely to move westwards. Under its influence, a low pressure area is likely to form over central parts of Bay of Bengal during the subsequent 48 hours," according to the met department's All India Weather Forecast bulletin.

Under its influence, isolated very heavy rainfall and fairly widespread rains are likely over Tamil Nadu, Puducherry, and Karaikal till October 29. Balachandran said heavy rain is likely to occur over Tirunelveli, Thoothukudi till October 27.

"WHEN these labourers go missing, relatives struggle to register complaints with the police. They also find it difficult to communicate with the local police because of language issues as most of them are from other states. The labour department should help them," the member of the labourers' union requested.

Ballari Superintendent of Police Saidulu Adavath said that in all, over 200 missing complaints are registered in undivided Ballari district every year. "But I will ask inspectors from concerned police stations to check cases of missing labourers. If any police official refuses to register a complaint, people should immediately contact the SP's office," he added.

Both pilots now removed from roster, says airline

"THE aircraft landed safely. The airline acted immediately and proactively on receiving the information and informed DGCA and AAIB, and immediately off-rostered both pilots pending an investigation," the SpiceJet spokesperson stated. Belagavi Airport Director Rajesh Kumar Maurya said, "There was no trouble at all in the landing and takeoff and nor did any of the passengers faced inconvenience. It was a minor technical problem which is being investigated by the authorities." The aircraft, SJ337, landed at the Belagavi airport at 11.20 am on Sunday and took off for Hyderabad at 12.06 pm with 50 passengers. The Belagavi airport is in the second position in the state after Bengaluru in the number of aircraft arrivals and departures.

BoB plans to increase biz correspondents in 3 yrs

ENS @ Bengaluru

BANK of Baroda MD and CEO Sanjiv Chadha has said that the bank aims to increase the number of Business Correspondents (BCs) to 5:1 in the next three years.

Addressing a press conference here on Monday, Chadha stressed the importance of BCs in financial inclusion and said, "Branches will never solve the problem of financial inclusion. It has to be again done through outlets which are near customers. So, we have plans to expand our BCs. When the amalgamation took place, we had about 16,000-17,000 BCs and 9,000 branches, which means that for every branch, we had two BCs. It is our ambition to take this number to five for every branch in the next three years."

Chadha said Bank of Baroda has a market share of about 6 per cent in banking in Bengaluru, while it is 23 per cent in car loans. "We want to ensure that Bengaluru becomes one of the most important centres for us," he said. He also pointed out that the bank was never strong in South India, but, with Vijaya Bank's merger, it actually had a very good franchise.

Credit Outreach Program

The Bank of Baroda launched a Credit Outreach Programme on Monday. The initiative will primary focus on Customer Credit Outreach and supporting the general public, farmers, entrepreneurs by way of distributing loans and implementing digital initiative by the Bank of Baroda towards the economic growth of the nation.

PAK RETAINED ON FATF GREY LIST AND IS NOW JOINED BY AN ALLY

Ever since the US-led NATO forces bowed out of Afghanistan, new multilateral groupings have emerged to contain China's strategic ambitions, the re-emergence of the Taliban and other allied threats. If the Quad aims to keep a hawk eye on the Indo-Pacific, the 'Other Quad' will police West Asia. And terror financing, threatening to destabilise the 'global order' from its Asiatic fringes, has got the attention of the Financial Action Task Force. What's surprising about the FATF's latest 'Grey List' is not the presence of the usual suspects, but the new names, most prominently Turkey and Jordan, among those seen as potentially subversive to the global financial system. Pakistan has shown improvement on a large number of parameters that put it on the FATF watchlist in the first place. But since crackdowns against commissioners of terror and conclusive prosecution remain a substantially unfulfilled task, it stays where it was, on the list with 22 others.

The inclusion of a big name like Turkey, Islamabad's friend and ally, and a NATO member at that, will stir a hornet's nest, seeing as how non-compliance with FATF standards implies financial linkages to the Islamic State and Al Qaeda, besides a role in WMD proliferation. A country doesn't have to be blacklisted, an honourable mention in the Grey List suffices to sour its ties with the global banking sector, financial institutions and foreign investors. The effects are plain to see on Pakistan's already nebulous economy. Will Ankara face the brunt now? The Turkish lira has spiralled further downward against the dollar, foreign ownership of bonds has slid to 5% from 25%, foreign investors are fleeing. In the process, Erdogan's policies have undone one of his key achievements, economic growth and middle-class prosperity. But as often seen, economic pressure that's ultimately felt by the masses does not always persuade the ruling strongmen to mend their ways. Erdogan likes to write his own destiny, and as for Imran Khan, poll-bound in a while, destiny being ghostwritten is the national custom.

TIME TO DECLARE WAR ON CLIMATE CHANGE

Non-stop torrential rains and resulting floods in Uttarakhand in North India and Kerala in South India last week took a heavy toll on life and property, and are rude reminders of what climate change can do.

These are linked to a series of recent incidents of unseasonal heavy rains, floods, cyclones, hurricanes, wildfires and weather pattern changes causing severe health concerns across the globe with a higher frequency. These are a result of global warming—a rise in the earth's atmospheric temperature due to the increased emission of greenhouse gases (GHGs). In 2015, the most abundant manmade GHG, carbon dioxide (accounting for about 75% of all GHGs), crossed the benchmark of 400 parts per million and stood at 414.3 ppm as on 23 October 2021, reveals data from Hawaii's Mauna Loa Atmospheric Baseline Observatory. This is a result of centuries of burning organic materials. Other GHGs in lesser quantities are known to be deadlier at atmospheric heat-trapping capabilities than CO_2—methane (CH_4), nitrous oxide (N_2O) and industrial gases including chlorofluorocarbons and hydrofluorocarbons.

Climate change has the potential to subject us and our future generations to a range of miseries that include displacements, food disruption, epidemic outbreaks and increased air pollution, and painfully diminish the human population. This apart, we are bound to see a number of species disappear, unable to survive the changes that occur. However, it is not that solutions are not available. What is not is a concerted effort on a war-footing that can defend us against the onslaught of climate change. Measures should include replacing fossil fuels with renewable energy sources, inhibiting industries from taking to carbon emissions and encouraging energy-efficient processes. India is among the top contributors to GHG emissions after China and the US. With repeated incidents of natural calamities affecting India, it is time the country declared war on climate change and led the fight against it.

Brands must mind their own 'business'. Don't stray onto the terrain of social or religious re-engineering, believing niche thoughts must be spread widely to wake up the masses

WOKENESS AND THE BATTERED BRANDS OF INDIA

AMIT BANDRE

The week gone by has seen a battle raging in the media (of the social and physical kind alike). This has been a battle between groups of verbose and vocal people who have rallied themselves for and against 'free advertising speech', if I may call it that. The majority of folks, however, sit silent and watch it all pan out. This is entertainment of a kind as well.

The recent skirmish of words began when Fabindia was accused of using an Urdu name (Jashn-e-Riwaaz) for a campaign that was ostensibly for its Diwali collection. A whole chunk of people on social media took umbrage at the fact that the lady models in the advertising wore no bindi as well. And fortunately that is where the deep criticism on the creatives stopped. Folks on social media decided to rally in religious groups and probed deep into conspiracy theories of advertising people, and those who commission these pieces of advertising in corporate companies as well. Many brands were therefore bashed.

The fire of criticism on Fabindia was just about settling, as the brand made amends and pulled out its ad, and in came the controversy of brand CEAT tyres. Out here, there was a message helmed by brand endorser and actor Aamir Khan, which advised folks not to burst firecrackers on the streets. The brand (circuitously and forcibly) tied the message line to the fact that CEAT tyres were tough and could take it all, till people changed their practices.

This CEAT tyres ad was also considered to be Diwali advertising by its timing, and social media groups took umbrage at the fact that they were being told not to use firecrackers. The theme in the advertisement had Aamir Khan dressed in IPL cricket regalia. Never mind that the timing was Diwali and CEAT got into trouble, trolled, memed and pushed into the dustbin of the cancel culture on brands that is just about emerging and growing in size.

Over the recent several years, there are a clutch of nine and odd brands that have emerged to be what I call the "battered brands of India". These are brands that have tried out themes that border on the woke, trying to nudge niche notions onto the masses for wider acceptance. Themes in this genre have included second marriages, same-sex Karwa Chauth, religious groups sharing in the celebration of the opposite group, interfaith marriages and more. These brands have all been battered on social media, to the point of withdrawal.

None of the brands have waited to see the storm tide over. And none have tested to see whether all this is much ado about nothing. Business is more important, and most brands don't want to test the waters or the patience of their customers who just might be among those asking for a boycott on the brand's offerings. Brands really don't have the time, energy, tenacity or patience to do this.

Then, why attempt to do the different at all? Why attempt to swim against the tide of mass-think?

I do believe there are two segments of people in the brand market of India. One is the niche and the other is the mass. The niche by definition is that small sliver of the population that sits atop Maslow's hierarchy of needs. It is a self-actualising set of people, distinguished by the fact that they think differently, after having it all. The other set is the mass. The biggest market for brands in India, needless to say, is the mass market.

Who do we really advertise to? Some brands like Mercedes-Benz and Louis Vuitton would say their market is at the top of the pyramid, while most others will say their market is at the middle, where much of the affordable mass of India lives, thrives and buys. And then there are some brands that cater basically only to the bottom of the pyramid market, with brands that appeal to a different price-quality equation altogether.

> My advice to brands is a simple one. Just don't touch two sanctum sanctorum subjects in your advertising: religion and politics. Both these subjects divide people

The key thought is the fact that there are niche market messages and mass market messages. The two are different and the twain does not meet. A niche market message must use a niche medium to percolate it. Out here, the brand can talk all that it wants to the self-actualising set of folk who consume this messaging. Direct 1:1 marketing, messaging and advertising on niche digital and physical mediums are possibilities for such niche messages. A mass market message can and must use media that percolates and reaches out to the masses. The problem really arises when niche market messages are used on mass market media.

And then there is the movement of woke. A movement that believes that niche thoughts have to be percolated widely to wake up the masses. All the efforts that have resulted in the growing roster of the "battered brands of India" are really attempts at being woke. It seems clear that India is not yet ready for woke. Brands might have to wait it out for a while till they can attempt it once again. For now, woke advertising is an invitation to the cancel culture to kick in. Kick in vigorously.

What's the end word on all this then? What's the answer to all the noise around?

I do believe brands are run by companies mandated to be run by their shareholders. Other than that, companies run brands to fulfil the need, want, desire and aspiration of their customers. Brands must therefore remain focused on their businesses. Brands must focus on being that solution the consumer is looking for. Brands must not think far too beyond that. In short, brands must mind their own "business". Just don't stray onto the terrain of social, political, economic or religious re-engineering. It's risky. And it's not what you are tasked to do by your consumer. Not yet.

Importantly, my advice to brands is a simple one. Just don't touch two sanctum sanctorum subjects in your advertising: religion and politics. Both these subjects divide people. The basic ethos of a brand is to unite people into its franchise and consumption, and not divide. Why divide, when you can unite?

WHAT MAKES A SOCIAL MOVEMENT TICK

ASHOKE K MAITRA

Founder & CEO, Sri Ramakrishna International Institute of Management

We are seeing the rise of social movements all over the world. Such a movement takes birth when there is perceived injustice in society and a section of affected people protest and demand social justice. We saw it in the United States and Hong Kong, in Belarus against a dictator and in Thailand against the king and so on. In many cases, it is to ensure democratic processes in an authoritarian country. It is also against exploitation, relative deprivation, environmental considerations or to end a bad custom or practice, or against class, caste or community tyranny.

About a year ago, we saw the Black Lives Matter movement in the US take centre stage again after the heinous murder of George Floyd. A racist white police officer pressed his knee into Floyd's neck till he died of suffocation. Such was the intensity of the brutality that it shocked the conscience of the whole planet. It started in the US but soon spread to nations such as the UK, France and Australia. Many years ago, Martin Luther King Jr had said, "No person should be judged by the colour of their skin, but by their content and character." The US saw for the first time the election of an African American president in Barack Obama and the last presidential poll witnessed the emergence of Kamala Harris as vice president. However, not much had changed for the community and hence the protests.

Many years ago, the Uttarakhand government had asked forest contractors to cut trees to make sports goods. The hill people joined together under the leadership of Sundarlal Bahuguna, hugged the trees and asked the contractors to fell them along with their bodies. It led to the formation of the Chipko movement, which became a major social-environmental campaign against deforestation.

According to the noted environmentalist Vandana Shiva, "Movements are major social and political processes ... and they transcend individual actors. They are significant precisely because they involve a multiplicity of people and events which contribute to a reinforcement of social change" (Staying Alive, 1988).

Social movements are of varied types such as those by tribals, peasants, trade unions and Dalits. Many of these movements have been ignored, but most of them had a lasting impact on raising consciousness, ensuring legal rights, providing employment, getting land to the poor and stopping money lenders from exploiting peasants. While trade union movements are often maligned, many social legislations to protect the human rights of workers in terms of wages, facilities and retirement benefits came into existence because of them.

> We need to examine why most of the protest movements have died a quick death, even though many were meaningful. They were emotional reactions and often led by charismatic leaders. Most of them started as a protest movement based on an issue and did not have a clearly articulated vision, strategy, policies, staffing and funding

At present we are witnessing the farmers' movement for more than a year. It is increasing in strength and can take an anarchical turn as it is demonstrating a lack of established leadership. The Centre has made some feeble attempts to address the misunderstanding, but it needs much greater protracted negotiation by HR specialists who are trained to solve such issues rather than some politicians and babus. Many political parties are also taking advantage of the chaos to use it to try and form a political alternative against the government.

If you study social movements very closely, you will find that most of them have not been well-documented. Ghanshyam Shah, in his book Social movements in India (2004), writes: "Indian scholars have not paid enough attention to the methodological issues involved in the study of various movements. Most of the studies on movements are sketchy and descriptive and are based on data derived from secondary sources—mainly newspapers."

We need to examine why most of the social/ protest movements have died a quick death, even though many were meaningful and had a long-term impact. Most of them started as a protest movement based on an issue and did not have a clearly articulated vision, strategy, policies, staffing, authority systems and funding. They were an emotional reaction and often led by a charismatic leader.

As most of these movements were against the establishment, the leaders were booked under various criminal acts and jailed. Most of them caved in once the leader was not there as they did not have a robust organisation structure. However, in contrast, we also see movements such as the Dravidian or Dalit campaigns, which have been part of a political process, last for a much longer period and even occupy political power.

We thus find that if any campaign becomes a socio-political movement, emerges as a political party and has a proper vision, strategy and organisation structure, it has a greater longevity. But those without an organisation just remain a protest movement for a short period and fizzle out.

Lacklustre performance

In the India-Pakistan T20 World Cup cricket match, our opponents proved to be stronger in batting, bowling and fielding. Its performance has improved tremendously. Indian fans were disappointed with the lacklustre performance of the Men in Blue. Rohit Sharma's early exit was just the beginning; the subsequent batsmen sans Virat Kohli did not play to their full potential. This should be an eye-opener for the team to consolidate its position and improve its performance in the ensuing matches.

India shouldn't lose heart

The Dubai International Stadium witnessed history on Sunday, with the Pakistan cricket team having beaten the Indian one for the first time in a World Cup. But India should not lose heart. Kohli and the team have enough time to learn from the debacle and come out with flying colours in the next match.

Sportsmanship displayed

Pakistan played brilliantly to beat India in the World Cup on Sunday. Such things are bound to happen in sports; every team has its wins and losses. If this loss makes Team India more humble and level-headed, it will be an advantage. The sight of Virat Kohli congratulating the Pakistani openers Mohammed Rizwan and Babar Azam epitomised the sportsman's spirit.

C G Kuriakose, Kothamangalam

Heartwarming scene

After a string of 12 losses over the years, Pakistan finally managed to defeat India in a World Cup encounter. And it did so in style, with a comprehensive 10-wicket win. Though the relations between the two nations beyond cricket have been hostile for long, it was heartwarming that none of these issues seemed to affect the players, as Kohli showed by congratulating and embracing Pakistan's openers after the game.

Drama in cruise drugs case

In a dramatic twist in the cruise drugs case involving Aryan Khan, a witness has alleged that the Narcotics Control Bureau zonal director Sameer Wankhede and others demanded a ₹25 crore bribe from actor Shah Rukh Khan for his son's release. Though Wankhede has denied the claims and sought the Mumbai police's protection from action on false charges, this has made the case more complicated. There could be more drama before it is done and dusted.

N J Ravi Chander, Bengaluru

Interfering with religion

China, by trying to push its decision on the choosing of the Dalai Lama's successor, is interfering with the internal matters of religions. Buddhism is a religion and a way of life, not a political party. China is a communist country that is not affiliated to any one religion. It has no authority over who gets chosen as the Dalai Lama's successor. This just goes to show that China wants to exert its authority over everything around the world, even matters where it should have no say.

Suman S Oreya, Thiruvananthapuram

Any political dividends?

The Congress proclamation to reserve 40% of party tickets for women is a bold move. But the question is: Will it result in political dividends? The prerequisites to win elections in our country apart from caste equations are money, muscle power and a personality cult like in the BJP. Even if the Congress walks the talk and fields women candidates, it still may not be able to match the BJP juggernaut and its aggressive election management strategy. First and foremost, the Congress has to ensure that its veterans are not given short shrift.

Purvanchal key to BJP poll strategy after farm unrest, Lakhimpur row

PM Modi's second trip to the region within five days shows its importance in UP elections

PM Narendra Modi with Uttar Pradesh Governor Anandiben Patel and CM Yogi Adityanath in Varanasi on Monday | PTI

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Centre's robust push to the development of Purvanchal is underscored by the fact that five of the nine medical colleges inaugurated by PM Narendra Modi are in eastern region of poll-bound Uttar Pradesh.

Political pundits asserted that by choosing Siddharthnagar and Varanasi to inaugurate the major welfare projects, PM Narendra Modi and CM Yogi Adityanath gave a subtle political message to the people of this region.

The popular saying is that the path to Lucknow goes through Purvanchal. For the BJP, it is an issue of prestige as the constituencies of both Modi and Yogi fall in eastern UP.

With 164 Assembly segments spread across 28 districts, Purvanchal contributes around 33 per cent seats to the 403-member UP Assembly. In the 2017 elections, the BJP won a landslide victory by bagging 115 of 164 seats, whereas the Samajwadi Party got 17, BSP 14, Congress two and others 16. This was followed by the BJP cornering the maximum seats from Purvanchal in the 2019 general elections.

"In the wake of Lakhimpur Kheri violence and the farmers' unrest in western UP, BJP is now concentrating on Purvanchal to make up for the possible losses of western UP by winning there," said JP Shukla, a political commentator.

The BJP is already trying to balance the caste equations in eastern UP by aligning with smaller caste-based groups as Apna Dal of Anupriya Patel, and NISHAD Party of Sanjay Nishad.

The importance of Purvanchal can be gauged from the fact that Modi visited the region for the second time within a span of five days. On October 20, the PM reached Kushinagar to inaugurate UP's third and country's 87th international airport. Moreover, he also dedicated welfare projects worth ₹5,229 crore to the people of Varanasi. These whirlwind tours could be a reflection of the PM holding the reins of the electoral battle with focus on eastern UP.

At Siddharthnagar, the PM claimed that upcoming medical infrastructure would fulfil the dreams of a healthy India. "They (medical colleges) are a gift to the people of the state," he said, claiming that those nine colleges would create over 5,000 employment opportunities and around 2,500 hospital beds. "Earlier, governments left the people of Purvanchal to suffer from diseases like Japanese encephalitis but now it will become a medical hub of northern India."

In Varanasi, Modi reiterated his charge that previous governments were responsible for not developing adequate and quality medical infrastructure in the country.

Nine medical colleges in one go shows UP's traction

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

IN poll-bound Uttar Pradesh where nine new medical colleges have been inaugurated by PM Narendra Modi on Monday, the government is on a spree to start new medical colleges as the state had seen one of the worst crises during the second Covid19 wave earlier this year.

Inaugurating the nine medical colleges, PM Modi said that before 2014, there were less than 90,000 medical seats, including UG and PG, in the country while 60,000 new medical seats were added in the last seven years. "Here in Uttar Pradesh too, till 2017 there were only 1,900 medical seats in government medical colleges. Whereas in the government of double engine, more than 1900 seats have been increased in just the last four year academic year," said Modi.

With Siddharthnagar, Etah, Hardoi, Pratapgarh, Fatehpur, Deoria, Ghazipur, Mirzapur and Jaunpur districts getting the new medical colleges, UP now boasts of 57 medical colleges in all, second only to Karnataka as per the National Medical Commission.

Importantly, officials in the Union health ministry said that Uttar Pradesh, after Gujarat and Karnataka, will also be the third to start 16 new medical colleges under the public-private partnership scheme.

The scheme proposed by the Niti Aayog last year had urged the states to allow takeover of government hospitals in the districts by private players.

Under the plan, the private players will also be responsible for establishing and running medical colleges that can be attached to the secondary healthcare centres or district hospitals they get to control.

Karnataka and Gujarat had handed over a few district hospitals to private medical colleges even prior to the Niti Aayog's push to adopt the model throughout the country. None of the states, besides Uttar Pradesh, however, have come up with concrete plans to take the scheme forward yet.

Free treatment up to ₹10L: Priyanka

LUCKNOW: Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra promised free medical treatment of up to ₹10 lakh to people of Uttar Pradesh if her party is voted to power.

"Everyone has seen the dilapidated condition of the health system of UP due to government neglect during the Corona period and now during the spread of fever. To ensure quality and cheap treatment, with the consent of the manifesto committee, the UP Congress has decided that if voted to power, our government will provide treatment of any disease free of cost up to ₹10 lakh," she tweeted.

On Saturday, Priyanka had flagged off the Pratigya Yatra from Barabanki during which she resolved to take seven vows including purchase of wheat and paddy at ₹2,500 per quintal and ₹400 per quintal for sugarcane, total loan waiver to farmers, and 20 lakh jobs.

Reacting to the Congress's poll promises, UP cabinet minister Suresh Khanna called them as "lollipop". He said that the Congress had implemented none of the promises in the state ruled by it. "This shows that the promises made now are all poll gimmicks. Congress is making all these promises to mislead people who know that the commitments are not going to be realised ever."

Khanna said the Congress did very little to develop a quality medical infrastructure in the country. "The people had to face medical hardships due to the neglect and inertness of the previous governments." ENS

SC/ST ACT

Non-grave cases can be junked: SC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court said that a court can exercise its power to quash proceedings where it appears that the alleged offence although covered under the SC/ST Act, is primarily private or civil.

"The courts have to be mindful of the fact that the Act was enacted keeping in view the express constitutional safeguards enumerated in Articles 15, 17 and 21 of the Constitution," said a bench headed by Chief Justice N V Ramana.

"On the other hand, where it appears to the Court that the offence in question, although covered under the SC/ST Act, is primarily private or civil in nature, or where the alleged offence has not been committed on account of the caste of the victim, or where the continuation of the legal proceedings would be an abuse of the process of law, the court can quash the proceedings."

The mere fact that the offence is covered under a 'special statute' will not refrain the courts or the High Court from exercising their respective powers under Article 142 of the Constitution, the top court said. PTI

Centre rushes multi-disciplinary team to Kanpur following Zika case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/Lucknow

THE Union health ministry on Monday dispatched a multi-disciplinary team to Kanpur in Uttar Pradesh where a case of Zika virus was detected in a warrant officer in the Indian Air Force.

Uttar Pradesh is third state after Kerala and Maharashtra to report Zika virus cases in India this year.

The team comprising an entomologist, public health specialists and gynaecologist drawn from National Vector Borne Disease Control Programme, National Centre for Disease Control and RML Hospital was deployed to assist the state health authorities.

The team will work closely with the state, take a stock of the situation on the ground and assess whether the Centre's action plan for Zika management is being implemented. It will also recommend necessary public health interventions for management of Zika, if required.

Transmitted through Aedes aegypti mosquito, the infection is characterised by fever, skin rashes, conjunctivitis, muscle and joint pain. Its initial symptoms may be similar to Covid. Though largely not very serious, it is harmful for pregnant women, as the mother can pass the infection to her foetus during pregnancy or around the time of birth leading to microcephaly — a condition in which a baby's head is significantly smaller than normal.

Chief medical officer, Kanpur, Nepal Singh, said, the officer was being treated at Air Force Hospital. Blood samples were sent to National Institute of Virology, Pune, after his body temperature remained alarmingly high for a week.

Moreover, as per the sources, at least 1,300 samples of the contacts of patient and those with similar symptoms were dispatched to the Pune lab.

'Marriage permissible only between biological man & woman'

ANKITA UPADHYAY @ New Delhi

REFUSING to soften its stand on same-sex marriages, the Centre on Monday said a marriage is permissible only between a biological woman and man.

In his submission in the Delhi High Court, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta argued that 'spouse' means either husband or wife and 'marriage' is a term associated with heterosexual couples. "The issue here is if a marriage is permissible between homosexual couples. There is some misconception regarding Navtej Singh Johar case. It merely decriminalises a consensual homosexual act. It does not talk about marriage," Mehta said, in a reference to the landmark Supreme Court verdict of 2018 that decriminalised all consensual sex among adults,

A bench of Chief Justice D N Patel and Justice Jyoti Singh was hearing the arguments on a batch of three petitions. The bench listed the matter for final hearing on November 30.

In the first of these petitions, Abhijit Iyer Mitra and three others have sought a declaration to recognise same-sex marriage under the Hindu Marriage Act and the Special Marriage Act (SMA). Another plea has been filed by two women seeking to get married under the SMA.

The third petition is by Joydeep Sengupta, an Overseas Citizenship of India (OCI) card holder, his partner, a US citizen named Russell Blaine Stephens, and Mario Dpenha, an Indian citizen and queer rights activist pursuing a PhD at Rutgers University, USA. The plea seeks that a foreign-origin spouse of an OCI cardholder should be allowed to apply for OCI registration regardless of gender or sexual orientation.

During the hearing, senior lawyer Karuna Nandy said Sengupta and Stephens got married in New York and the laws applicable in their case are the Citizenship Act, the FMA and the SMA.

She submitted that the Citizenship Act provides that a person married to an OCI, whose marriage is registered and subsisting for two years, should be declared eligible to apply for an OCI card as a spouse. The Act is silent on gender and sexuality of the spouse, she contended.

ARMY BRAINSTORMS AMID GROWING CHINESE THREAT

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

A three-day conference of the Indian Army brass began on Monday in New Delhi, which will brainstorm on security issues involving the situation at de facto borders with China and Pakistan.

"All operational matters were discussed today. Also discussed was promotions of Major Generals to Lieutenant Generals," said a senior Army officer.

The Army Commanders' Conference will take up all aspects of human resources and administrative matters in the backdrop of the situation along the borders and challenges imposed by the Covid pandemic.

Army Chief General MM Naravane had recently expressed concern at the situation along the LoC on which Directors General of Military Operations of India and Pakistan reiterated ceasefire in February this year.

"The Chinese have deployed (their forces) in considerable numbers across eastern Ladakh and up to eastern command. There has been an increase in the deployment and it is a matter of concern for us. We are also carrying out matching developments in terms of infrastructure and deployment of troops. We are quite poised in order to meet any eventuality," General Naravane has said.

The conference is an apex-level biannual event held in April and October every year. The conference is an institutional platform for conceptual level deliberations, culminating in making important policy decisions for the Indian Army. Army Chief, the seven Army Commanders and the Vice Chief of Army meet during the conference. The other senior officers such as the Principal Staff Officers and the DGs of the Directorates attend the meet and share their inputs.

The conference is also a formal forum for the senior leadership of the Indian Army to interact with the senior officials of the Department of Military Affairs and Department of Defence.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh will also interact with Army commanders. Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat, and the Chiefs of the Indian Navy and the Indian Air Force, Chief Admiral Karambir Singh and Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari, are due to address the senior leadership of the Army on avenues for promoting tri-service synergy.

Rift wide open in Opposition ahead of Assembly polls

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

THE rift in the opposition ranks is widening ahead of the poll season as seen in Goa and Bihar, leaving a section of allies worried that this could only benefit the BJP which is in power in most of the poll-bound states.

In Goa, the Congress and the TMC are engaged in a pitched battle with West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee calling out all opposition parties to join hands to defeat the Pramod Sawant-led BJP government.

Recently, former Goa chief minister Luizinho Faleiro joined the Trinamool and was named the TMC vice-president. The Congress has only four sitting MLAs left from 17 in 2017. In the last five years, its state chief and many MLAs joined the BJP.

While the TMC is looking to expand its wings in Goa and Tripura, the AAP is expecting to improve its vote share 6 per cent vote share in 2017 and win some seats this time.

After the TMC projected Mamata as face of the opposition, Congress leader P Chidambaram, senior election observer for the Goa polls, said that the AAP and TMC are marginal players and that it is trying to start a state unit by managing defection from the Congress.

"The opposition is attacking each other rather than forming a joint front to take on the BJP. The division of votes will help the BJP in states where there is multi-party fight," said a senior opposition leader.

The last opposition meeting, chaired by Congress chief Sonia Gandhi, was held on August 20. Ahead of the Winter session of Parliament starting mid-November, the opposition leaders are expected to discuss common issues to take on the government in both the houses.

Goa is not just a lone example. In Bihar, the over two decade old RJD-Congress alliance is in doldrums with AICC general secretary in-charge of Bihar, Bhakta Charan Das accusing the RJD not respecting the alliance by announcing candidates for Kusheshwar Asthan and Tarapur bypolls without even consulting them. In response, RJD chief Lalu Prasad Yadav questioned the utility of Congress as an ally in the assembly elections.

Congress seeks JPC probe against Facebook

The Congress accused Facebook of "influencing" India's elections and "undermining" democracy and demanded a joint parliamentary committee probe into it. "Facebook has reduced itself to a Fakebook," Congress' Pawan Khera said, raising the purported leaked reports of Facebook not initiating action against hate speech.

NEET PG counselling to wait for EWS ruling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Centre on Monday told the Supreme Court that the NEET PG Counselling process will not commence until the SC decides on the challenge to the 27% OBC and 10% EWS reservation in PG All India Quota seats (MBBS/BDS and MD/MS/MDS).

Justices D Y Chandrachud and B V Nagarathna took the assurance by Additional Solicitor General K M Nataraj into account and noted that students will face problems if the NEET PG counselling process went ahead as scheduled.

The counselling process was supposed to start on October 25 as per the original schedule.

Senior advocate Arvind Dattar, appearing for some NEET candidates, said that if the counselling process began as planned, by the time the top court's decision on the reservation issue comes, the current admission process would already be over and students would face serious prejudice.

A batch of pleas had come in challenging the Centre and Medical Counselling Committee on the July 29 notice providing NEET PG medical seat reservation - 27% for OBC and 10% for EWS students. On September 17, the apex court decided to start hearing on the matter.

The Supreme Court had on October 21 asked the Centre whether it wanted to revisit the ₹8 lakh per annum limit set for determining whether a person can apply for EWS quota for NEET PG.

Will talk to Kashmiri youth, not Pak: Shah

Asserts he will not allow youths to be misguided, wants them to have books & pens instead of stones & guns

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

EXPRESSING hope that there would be lasting peace in Jammu and Kashmir, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday asserted that the government will talk to the people of Kashmir instead of talking to Pakistan and said the Kashmiri youth won't be allowed to get misguided.

"We took a decision on August 5, 2019 and I want to tell you that under the PM's leadership, a new era of development has ushered in J&K, especially the Valley. I want to assure you that people will see results by 2024," Shah said, addressing panchayat members and civil society members at SKICC, here.

Wearing Kashmiri traditional pheran, Shah said, "I was taunted and condemned. But today I want to speak to you frankly and that is why there is no bullet proof or security here. I am standing in front of you."

He said he read in newspapers today that former chief minister Farooq Abdullah had suggested him to talk to Pakistan. "I want to tell Farooq sahib that I will talk to youth and people of Kashmir. We want to talk to youth. I want to make friends with Kashmiri youth. We don't have any bad intentions or bad malice in our hearts. The development of Jammu, Kashmir and Ladakh is our mission. Before 2024, what Kashmir wants, it will be before you," he said.

Stating that they are talking of Pakistan, he said, "I want to tell you that you have the right to the country's resources and development like every other Indian. What has Pakistan done in PoK? There is no comparison between J&K and PoK, as in Pakistan they are living in a dark era," Shah said.

Kashmir's development, he said, will be done by its youth and people. "The government does not want Kashmiri youth to take up stones and guns. Instead they should carry books and pens," Shah said.

Referring to Sufism for which Kashmir is known, he said Sufism came to Kashmir from central Asia and Iran and came to India through Kashmir. "Kashmir gave Sufism to India. I met sufi saints today and I saw a ray of hope and I have hope that there will be long-lasting peace in Kashmir."

250 terrorists at LoC waiting to sneak in, says intel

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

AROUND 250 terrorists are waiting at launch pads across the Line of Control (LoC) to infiltrate into Jammu and Kashmir by the end of September, according to latest intelligence inputs. This is a major jump from terrorist movements in the previous month August when the number of terrorists was found to be around 180. Most of the terrorists waiting to sneak into India belong to Lashkar-e-Taiba, and Jaish-e-Mohammad.

Even though India and Pakistan agreed to ceasefire in February this year, a large number of terrorists' movement has been noticed along the LoC, a senior security official told this newspaper. He added that the presence of terrorists has risen sharply in three sectors particularly-Tangdhar, Bhimber Gali sector and Naushera. The official refused to elaborate due to operational reasons.

A top intelligence official said that Intel reports indicate terrorist outfits may explore new routes, riverine gaps and undetected tunnels to infiltrate maximum terrorists. The official attributed the increased presence of terrorists along the LoC to the Taliban victory in Afghanistan, pointing out that the level of violence in Jammu and Kashmir has gone up significantly over the last two months. "We are alert and prepared to deal with any contingency but it cannot be denied that morale of Pakistan based terrorist organizations is high due to Taliban's takeover of Afghanistan and they have intensified training of terrorists," the official said.

The Intel has come when union Home Minister Amit Shah is in the valley as part of the government's attempt to reach out to the people of J&K post abrogation of its special status and its bifurcation into two union territories.

Kashmir has seen a rise in violence particularly this month when it has witnessed a spate of targeted killings of security forces and civilians, especially non-locals and people belonging to minority communities in the valley. The increase in terror violence is being seen as part of a renewed bid by Pakistan to rekindle terrorism in the valley.

Hindu federation slams attacks on minorities in B'desh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE attacks on non-Islamic religious institutions in Bangladesh, which started on October 13, have continued despite protests against the incidents being staged across the country. In the latest attack, the miscreants torched the Katakhali Forest Buddhist Monastery in Cox's Bazar district after vandalising it on Sunday. The World Hindu Federation's Bangladesh Chapter said 15 Buddhist Chakmas, including women, were seriously injured.

> More than 335 temples, 1,650 Hindu houses, Hindu-owned shops in more than 35 districts have been vandalised and torched since October 13
>
> World Hindu Federation

"Hindus in Bangladesh are facing attacks all over the country. More than 335 temples, 1,650 Hindu houses, Hindu-owned shops in more than 35 districts have been vandalised and torched since October 13," the Federation said.

It said 14 Hindus, including seven priests, were killed. Till now, 17 Hindus have been reported missing. At least 26 Hindu women and girls – including three of a family – were raped. A 10-year-old Hindu girl was killed after gang-rape, the federation alleged. It accused the Sheikh Hasina government of inaction, stating that in none of the incidents, the police and the administration took measures to stop the violence.

The riots against Hindus started after a video footage had gone viral showing a Quran being placed on the knee of a Hindu god during the celebrations of Durga Puja. Mobs of people attacked Hindu temples in Comilla town and soon, the attacks spread to other parts of the country.

Thousands of people from minority communities are hitting the streets in protest against the incidents but there is no let-up in the attacks.

The Hindu federation claimed that the attacks were pre-planned to cleanse the Hindus and other ethnic communities from Bangladesh.

"The man who placed the Quran on the feet of Hanuman idol in Nanuar Dhighirpar Durga Mandir was identified as one Iqbal. He has been nabbed but there are no voices of protests against this from Islamic institutions and organisations," the federation said

'Internet blockade saved many lives'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

NOBODY will be allowed to disturb peace and development of Jammu & Kashmir, said Home Minister Amit Shah while addressing elected panchayat members and civil society members at SKICC in Srinagar on Monday. The Modi government will not allow the killing of civilians while people continue to live in fear, he said.

Justifying the imposition of the Centre-led security clampdown in J&K after Article 370 revocation, he said, "Had we not suspended the internet and imposed curfew, emotions of Kashmiri youth would have been aroused and it would have led to killing of youths."

Indirectly referring to Abdullahs, Muftis and Gandhis, the home minister said the three families have ruled J&K for 70 years and in their rule 40,000 people were killed. "They have not condemned militancy. They say the person was killed and it should not have happened".

Allaying fears of people on land protection, he said, "Questions were raised that after Article 370 revocation, land of people will be snatched. Nobody's land has been snatched in the last two years. They are telling lies. If they come to your village tell them no land was snatched in our land."

Referring to the developmental scenario post Article 370 revocation, Shah said there used to be only three medical colleges in J&K while in the last two years, seven more were established," he said.

Malik 'casts' doubt over Wankhede's background

"SO far, Nawab Malik has ran the show. I will now take over from him in exposing the wrongdoing of NCB and its officers step by step," Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut said.

NCP minister Nawab Malik levelled another allegation on Monday that Wankhede is Muslim by birth so he is not entitled to avail of the benefit in the reserved category that he had done for his civil service.

Sharing the birth certificate of Wankhede, Malik said that Sameer's father name is Dawood K Wankhede while his mother's name is Zabida Begum Bano. He said Wankhede got married to Shabana Khureshi in 2006 and has two daughters. Then, he got divorced and got married to small-time Marathi actress Kranti Redkar.

"If the person is Muslim, how come he can avail the scheduled class reserved category benefits? This is nothing but forgery and cheating. We will move court against cheating the government and snatching one seat of reserved category persons in the civil services," Malik said.

However, Wankhede denied the allegations saying this is part of a malicious campaign against him by the NCP minister. Wankhede's spouse Kranti Redkar defended her husband saying truth will prevail.

Wankhede said the minister's act of publishing his personal information on Twitter was "defamatory in nature and unnecessary invasion of his family's privacy".

Kashmiri students thrashed in Punjab

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

HOURS after India lost the T-20 World Cup match, over a dozen Kashmiri students allegedly celebrating Pakistan's victory were thrashed at two educational institutions located in Punjab's Sangrur and Kharar.

Sources said the incidents took place after pro-Pakistan slogans were raised after the match on Sunday night. Students from Kashmir and the others belonging to Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Haryana were watching the match in their rooms at Bhai Gurdas Institute of Engineering and Technology in Sangrur.

A video went viral purportedly showing a Kashmiri student alleging that some students from UP barged into their room and hit them. Sources said there are at least nine students from Kashmir and some 30 from UP and Bihar in the college. The Kashmiri students cheered Pakistan and allegedly raised pro-azadi slogans. This apparently did not go well with the students from UP and Bihar who went to the rooms of Kashmiri students and had a fight.

In another incident, about half-a-dozen students from Kashmir were allegedly beaten up at Rayat-Bahra University near Kharar by students from Haryana after the match.

Patiala (Range) IG, M S Chinna confirmed the incidents. "Both sides have apologised. They have given it in writing and pledged that they will not indulge in any such activity in the future. The matter has been amicably settled," he said.

J&K Students Association founder Nasir Khuehami urged Punjab CM Charanjit Singh Channi for action against the accused and more security for Kashmiris studying and working in the state.

RAINING LOOKALIKES

Yogi doppelganger wants to join BJP poll show in UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

IT'S the season of look alikes of popular chief ministers in Madhya Pradesh. While 45-year-old chat seller Gaurav Gupta, resembling Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal, is tantalising taste buds of foodies in Gwalior, the saffron clad temple priest Jogi Vijendar Nath, who is Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath's look-alike, is a hit with the party's rank and file and supporters across by-election bound Khandwa Lok Sabha constituency.

Associated with Nath Sampradaya (the same Shaivya sub-tradition with which the UP CM is also associated), the 46-year-old Indore resident Jogi Vijendar Nath is campaigning all across Khandwa for the by-elections on October 30, since the last 10 days.

"I consider myself fortunate that I somehow resemble the illustrious UP CM and am representing him in BJP campaigning in MP, when he is focused on strategising to win in the all important 2022 UP Assembly polls. People all across the poll meetings call me Yogiji and click selfies with me," the UP CM's look-alike told The New Indian Express on Monday.

He recently shared the stage of poll campaigning in Khargone district with BJP national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya and young national secretary of the party Pankaja Munde.

"I've been a BJP supporter since childhood and have been working with the party for a long time, taking time out of my busy schedule as a temple priest in the Khandwa Road area of Indore. But since 2017, when Yogi Adityanath became UP CM, I've been a regular at BJP campaigns all across MP, as the look-alike of Yogiji. I've met the UP CM thrice so far," he said.

Hailing originally from Karauli district of Rajasthan, but now settled in Indore, the Yogi Adityanath look-alike is the disciple of Shivnath Yogi, the guru bhai of Yogi Adityanath.

Varsities should vie for global partnerships: UP govt

Promoting transnational education partnerships between universities in India and the United Kingdom, the UP government has asked higher education institutes to come forward and participate in the Going Global Partnership Grants (GGPG). The collaboration is the outcome of the British High Commissioner's recent visit to UP where he explored possibilities for a link up with the state on various fronts, including education. The higher education department has asked universities, both state and private ones, to take the programme – encouraging ties in higher education between universities in the state and the UK – on priority. British High Commission is holding grant webinars to make the UP universities understand the grant application details and guidelines.

Lehengas rule the roost at Khadi Mahotsav

A bevy of well-known Indian designers participated in a special khadi fashion show, which was organised as part of the ongoing Khadi Mahotsav in Lucknow. Facebook's profit-mindedness fuelling misinformation, hate

Internal documents show obsession with growth, even at the cost of users' wellbeing

WASHINGTON

FACEBOOK the company is losing control of Facebook the product — not to mention the last shreds of its carefully crafted, decade-old image as a benevolent company just wanting to connect people around the world. Thousands of pages of internal documents provided to Congress by a former employee depict an internally conflicted company where data on the harms it causes is abundant, but solutions, much less the will to act on them, are halting at best.

The crisis exposed by the documents shows how Facebook, despite its regularly avowed good intentions, appears to have slow-walked or sidelined efforts to address real harms the social network has magnified and sometimes created. They reveal numerous instances where researchers and rank-and-file workers uncovered deep-seated problems that the company then overlooked or ignored.

At the heart of these stories is a premise which is false. The truth is we've invested $13 billion and have over 40,000 people to do one job: keep people safe on Facebook

Facebook

Final responsibility for this state of affairs rests with CEO Mark Zuckerberg, who holds what one former employee described as dictatorial power over a corporation that collects data on and provides free services to roughly three billion people around the world.

"Ultimately, it rests with Mark and whatever his prerogative is — and it has always been to grow, to increase his power and his reach," said Jennifer Grygiel, a Syracuse University communications professor who's followed Facebook closely for years. Zuckerberg has an ironclad hold on Facebook Inc. He holds the majority of the company's voting shares, controls its board of directors and has increasingly surrounded himself with executives who don't appear to question his vision. While Facebook has pushed for high user growth outside the US and Western Europe, the company systematically failed to address or even anticipate the unintended consequences of signing up millions of new users without also providing staff and systems to identify and limit the spread of hate speech, misinformation and calls to violence.

But Facebook appears unable to acknowledge, much less prevent, the real-world collateral damage accompanying its untrammeled growth. Those harms include shadowy algorithms that radicalise users, pervasive misinformation and extremism, facilitation of human trafficking, teen suicide and more.

Internal efforts to mitigate such problems have often been pushed aside or abandoned when solutions conflict with growth — and, by extension, profit.

Haugen, who testified before the Senate this month that Facebook's products "harm children, stoke division and weaken our democracy," said the company should declare "moral bankruptcy" if it is to move forward from all this.

At this stage, that seems unlikely. There is a deep-seated conflict between profit and people within Facebook — and the company does not appear to be ready to give up on its narrative that it's good for the world even as it regularly makes decisions intended to maximize growth.

"Facebook did regular surveys of its employees — what percentage of employees believe that Facebook is making the world a better place," Zhang recalled.

"It was around 70 per cent when I joined. It was around 50 per cent when I left," said Zhang, who was at the company for more than two years before she was fired in the fall of 2020. Facebook has not said where the number stands today. AP

APPLE THREATENED ACTION OVER MAID ABUSE

Two years ago, Apple threatened to pull Facebook and Instagram from its app store over concerns about the platform being used as a tool to trade and sell maids in West Asia. Facebook acknowledged in internal documents that it was "under-enforcing on confirmed abusive activity" that saw Filipina maids complaining on the social media site of being abused. Apple relented and Facebook and Instagram remained in the app store. But Facebook's crackdown seems to have had a limited effect. Even today, a quick search for "khadima," or "maids" in Arabic, will bring up accounts featuring posed photographs of Africans and South Asians with ages and prices listed next to their images. "Yes, as it advertises, it's connecting people, but it has become a haven of sinister people and syndicates who wait for your weak moment to pounce on you," an activist said.

SELECTIVE ACTION IN INDIA

Facebook in India has been selective in curbing hate speech, misinformation and inflammatory posts, particularly anti-Muslim content, according to leaked documents obtained by The Associated Press, even as it's own employees cast doubt over its motivations and interests. The leaked documents include a trove of internal company reports on hate speech and misinformation in India that in some cases appeared to have been intensified by its own "recommended" feature and algorithms. Back in February 2019 and ahead of a general election when concerns of misinformation were running high, a Facebook employee wanted to understand what a new user in India saw on their news feed if all they did was follow pages and groups solely recommended by the platform itself. Seemingly benign and innocuous groups recommended by Facebook quickly morphed into something else altogether, where hate speech, unverified rumors and viral content ran rampant.

GROUPS AMPLIFYING HATE: WHISTLEBLOWER

Former Facebook data scientist Frances Haugen told lawmakers in the UK working on legislation to rein in social media companies that the company is making online hate and extremism worse. Haugen told UK lawmakers how Facebook Groups amplifies online hate, saying algorithms that prioritise engagement take people with mainstream interests and push them to the extremes. She said the company could add moderators to prevent groups from being used to spread extremist views. Haugen added she was "shocked to hear that Facebook wants to double down on the metaverse and that they're gonna hire 10,000 engineers. "I was like, Wow, do you know what we could have done with safety if we had 10,000 more engineers?" she said.

Military seizes power in Sudan

KHARTOUM

SUDAN'S top general declared a state of emergency, dissolved the authorities leading the country's democratic transition, and announced the formation of a new government after soldiers detained civilian leaders Monday in what activists denounced as a "coup". General Abdel Fattah al-Burhan's announcement in a televised address came after armed forces detained figures of the government in charge of leading the transition since the April 2019 ouster of autocrat Omar al-Bashir.

"To rectify the revolution's course, we have decided to declare a state of emergency nationwide... dissolve the transitional sovereign council, and dissolve the cabinet," said Burhan, who has links to the paramilitary Rapid Support Forces which have been accused of atrocities in Sudan's Darfur conflict.

His statement came as clashes erupted in Khartoum, with soldiers firing at people who took to the streets to protest against the power grab. AFP

Key suspect confesses to fanning attacks on Hindus

DHAKA

A key suspect and his accomplice accused of fanning communal hatred on social media and instigating the recent violence against the minority Hindu community in Bangladesh have confessed to their crime in a pre-trial hearing, a court official has said. Shaikat Mandal confessed before a magistrate on Sunday that it was his Facebook post that led to the violence in Rangpur, Pirganj sub-district on October 17 during Durga Puja festivities in the country.

Mandal's accomplice Rabiul Islam is a 36-year-old cleric, who has been accused of arson and looting. "Shaikat Mandal and his accomplice Rabiul Isam have admitted their role before a senior judicial magistrate Delwar Hossain in (north-western) Rangpur," the court official told newsmen. They were arrested from Gazipur on Friday in a police raid and booked under the Digital Security Act.

Mandal is a philosophy department student of Rangpur's Carmichael College, and was expelled from the ruling Awami League's student wing Chhatra League after his arrest. He had uploaded objectionable content on Facebook to boost his follower count, a Rapid Action Battalion official was quoted as saying in a bdnews24.com report. PTI

'Need robust audit for resilient economy'

RBI Governor seeks greater scrutiny of auditors; flags related party deals without following 'arms-length' principle

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Reserve bank of India Governor Shaktikanta Das on Monday said that there is a need to improve the quality and depth of audit for a dynamic and resilient economy and called for greater scrutiny of auditors, especially with increasing complexity of financial markets and higher expectations from the public about efficient resource allocation.

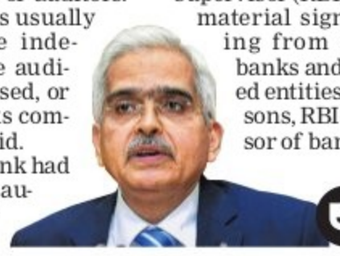
"As India aspires to grow faster, the expertise and independence of auditors will have to be leveraged to provide more assurance on financial performance to all stakeholders. We need robust audit for a dynamic and resilient economy," Das said in his address to at the National Academy of Audit and Accounts (NAAA), Shimla.

The RBI governor called for greater scrutiny of auditors.

"Audit failures usually arise when the independence of the auditor is compromised, or the auditor lacks competence," Das said.

The central bank had recently banned auditing firm Haribhakti & Co, auditor of SREI Infrastructure Finance, under section 45MA of the RBI Act for two years from conducting audits on its regulated entities from next financial year.

"A statutory auditor has a duty to report directly to the supervisor (RBI) on matters of material significance arising from the audit of banks and other regulated entities. For these reasons, RBI as the supervisor of banks and NBFCs has a keen interest in the manner with which statutory auditors perform audits in the regulated entities," Das said.



Audit failures usually arise when the independence of the auditor is compromised, or the auditor lacks competence —Shaktikanta Das, RBI Governor

Without taking any names, Das said that there had been several instances of related party transactions without following 'arms-length' principle.

"There have been instances of diversion of funds and/or transfer of profits to connected parties through various means - intra-group loans on favourable terms, over or under invoicing of transactions, asset transfers without fair valuation, etc.," the RBI governor said.

He also warned auditors against manipulation and misstatement of financial statements by employing opaque technological means.

"Real transactions are camouflaged beneath various layers of IT solutions by a few entities. As such, auditors need to be technologically savvy and be able to 'see-through' the layers of information technology to detect the real nature of hidden transactions," Das said.

TRAI paper hints at concentration in cable TV market

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TOP 14 cable/DTH service providers have cornered 25% subscribers in an otherwise fragmented pay TV market, a consultation paper floated by the broadcasting and telecom regulator shows.

Hinting at a possible market concentration situation, the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) consultation paper notes that the emergence of joint venture or subsidiary model in the past few years, and following large multi- service operators (MSOs) acquiring local cable operators and smaller MSOs, there have been instances of dominant MSOs misusing their market power.

The consultation paper has been released with the intention of safeguarding the interest of smaller players.

According to the TRAI paper, there are estimated 184 million TV households which are being served by the cable TV services, DTH services, HITS services, IPTV services in addition to a terrestrial TV network of Doordarshan.

The pay TV universe consists of around 73 million cable TV subscribers, 70.99 million DTH subscribers and 2.15 million HITS subscribers. In addition, there are 38 million subscribers of Free-to-Air DTH Service and terrestrial TV services provided by Doordarshan.

The consultation paper of TRAI

- 184 million TV households in India
- Pay TV universe consists of 73 million cable TV subscribers
- 70.99 mn DTH users
- 2.15 mn HITS subscribers
- 38 mn users of free-to-air DTH services

As per the data shared by the service providers with TRAI in May 2021, top 14 MSOs (multi-service operators) of the sector serve approximately 45.7 million customers. The major MSOs are Siti Networks, GTPL Hathway, Hathway Digital and DEN Networks. The four major DTH operators at the end of June 2021 were Dish TV, TATA Sky, Sun Direct and Bharti Telemedia.

Through the consultation paper, TRAI has sought opinion on whether MSOs and their joint ventures (JV) should be treated as a single entity, while considering their strength in the relevant market.

Earlier, Trai had opined that, "any MSO which by itself contributes to more than 2,500 HHI (Herfindahl-Hirschman Index) in a relevant market should not be permitted to merge with or acquire the 'control' of any other MSO/LCO in that market."

CRUDE IMPACT

Nomura: High commodity price may fuel inflation by 1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S inflation may increase by 1% if commodity prices, including crude oil, continue to remain high, which can threaten to cut India's GDP growth, a recent research note released by Nomura Holdings said.

If the current trend in prices of natural gas, crude, coal and electricity continue till December 2021, and increase by around 5% till March 2022, then the potential impact on consumer price inflation (CPI) would be around 1%, the Japanese financial holdings company said, suggesting that it may lower India's GDP.

The report adds that crude oil prices may alone impact India's inflation by 30 basis points (bps).

Brent crude prices have surged to $85 per barrel, while natural gas prices have increased by around 26% from August levels. Many experts predict the price to go up further to $90 per barell.

Talking of coal shortage, it said the crisis will be resolved in a few months, but may lower industrial activity and accentuate inflationary pressures.

Nomura has also downgraded Indian markets to neutral from overweight rating due to unfavourable risk-reward given high valuations, as a number of positives appear to be priced in, while headwinds are emerging.

"We now see an unfavourable risk-reward given valuations, as a number of positives appear to be priced in, whilst headwinds are emerging. We, thus, downgrade India to neutral in our regional allocation and will look for better entry points given our still-constructive medium-term view."

It said India's valuation appears "very stretched". It highlighted that 77% of domestic stocks in the MSCI index are trading higher than the pre-pandemic or post-2018 average valuations.

From Tanishq to Dabur: Brands facing scrutiny by social media users over ads

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

AS scrutiny from the internet intensifies, advertising has now become a whole new ballgame for brand strategists. Various companies in the recent past have come out with advertisements that did not sit well with the citizens of the internet, or as they are called, netizens.

In the latest episode of the saga of brands facing backlash over their ads on social media, particularly Twitter, FMCG major Dabur's Fem Creme Gold Bleach withdrew an ad showing a same-sex couple celebrating Karvachauth, after it got embroiled in a huge controversy. Dabur on Monday posted an apology on Twitter.

"Fem's Karwachauth campaign has been withdrawn from all social media handles and we unconditionally apologise for unintentionally hurting people's sentiments," read the apology. Ad trolling directly affects a company's brand equity and "shareholder value, says Bhavesh Talreja, Founder of mobile advertising platform Globale Media, adding that brands need to have a social media marketing understanding system.

"All companies live and thrive under a political system, and have an imperative to not only be correct but also appear to be politically correct. This is a business habit in India...when the trolls start the cancel culture, it affects the image of the brand, and eventually the image of the company," he said.

Dabur India's share price fell 1.51% to ₹581.95 on Monday. Earlier, Titan's stock dropped within a day by 2.5% after the Tanishq ad controversy.

Talreja says political correctness with ad campaigns very much forms a part of brand strategy in India. Surf Excel's ad showing a Muslim boy and Hindu girl, Ceat's Diwali crackers ad featuring Amir Khan and 'Jashn-e-Riwaaz' campaign by Fab-India are some recent cases that have drawn criticism.

FM asks for capex hike in DoT, aviation ministry

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday reviewed the progress of capital expenditure by the civil aviation ministry and the telecom department and asked them to make it "substantially higher" than the current target.

"The Finance Minister also directed officials in the Department of Economic Affairs (DEA) to work in close coordination with Ministry of Civil Aviation to ensure that more projects are initiated and CAPEX spending in FY23 is substantially increased than the present target," a statement from the finance ministry said.

Union Budget for 2021-22 has provided a capital outlay of ₹5.54 lakh crore, an increase of 34.5% over the Budget Estimate of 2020-21.

"During the meeting, CAPEX status of Q1 and Q2, Front-loading of CAPEX, estimated targets of capital spending by Ministries and their Central Public Sector Enterprises (CPSEs) in the upcoming quarters of current financial year, expenditure incurred for implementation of National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) projects, estimation of funds to be raised by asset monetisation, projects undertaken through PPP and Convergence under National Master Plan (Gati Shakti) were discussed," the statement added.

Fast-track monetisation

DoT to push its CPSE CAPEX and work in close coordination with DIPAM to finalise the process of monetisation, ensuring implementation of digital expansion plans

The FM asked the Department of Telecommunications to push its CPSE CAPEX, fast-track asset monetisation, and work in close coordination with DIPAM to finalise the process of monetisation at the earliest, ensuring expeditious implementation of digital expansion plans in entire North-East region on priority.

Asian Paints denies reports on related party deals

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AFTER whistleblower allegations of related party transactions benefiting the promoter at the cost of other shareholders were reported in the media, the management of Asian Paints has clarified to the exchanges that the said transactions were undertaken only after necessary approvals from the audit committee and were in compliance with the law.

A whistleblower has made a complaint that Asian Paints entered into a transaction with one of its ex-employees Jayram Nadkarni and the company founded by him — Paladin Paints and Chemicals. It is alleged that Asian Paints promoter Ashwin Dani and his son Malav Dani bought this company in personal capacity with the money provided by Asian Paints Ltd (APL).

Asian Paints has clarified that it sought technical consultancy services of Nadkarni and Paladin Paints, the company floated by Nadkarni. According to the statement issued to exchanges, APL entered into an agreement with said entity in 2005-06 and made an upfront consultancy payment of ₹1.20 crore and paid a monthly consultancy fee of ₹12 lakh for a period of 21 months amounting to ₹2.52 crore.

It says at the time of entering the agreement with Nadkarni and Paladin, no related party relationship existed between APL and Paladin.

However, APL says that during 2015-16, it was informed of the acquisition of Palandin by a promoter director and since then, all the transactions with the said entity were undertaken only after necessary approvals from the Audit Committee of the board of directors and were as per the applicable provisions of law. The company further said they had received a whistleblower complaint in July after which it conducted a review of the transactions in the complaint and found the allegations baseless.

Airtel opts for 4-yr moratorium on spectrum due

BHARTI Airtel has informed the government that it will opt for the four-year moratorium on payment of AGR and spectrum dues, a source said.

The option of dues moratorium was offered by the government to telcos as part of a recently-announced relief package for telecom sector.

Airtel communicated its decision to the telecom department on Friday, the source said. Airtel has told the government that it will take the four-year moratorium on AGR (Adjusted Gross Revenue) and spectrum dues with the option of prepaying as per NIA (Notice Inviting Applications) norms, the source said. On the option for converting the interest amount (of moratorium period) into equity, companies still have ample time to convey their decision, the source pointed out. An e-mail sent to Bharti Airtel on the matter, did not elicit a response. PTI

COLGATE-PALMOLIVE'S NET PROFIT SLIPS 2% IN SEPT QUARTER

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PACKAGED consumer goods major Colgate-Palmolive India on Monday reported a 1.8% decline in net profit at ₹269.2 crore for the quarter ended September 2021.

The company, which sells a range of personal care products, had reported a profit of ₹274.2 crore in the year-ago period. Colgate-Palmolive's net sales for the period grew by 5.2% over the same quarter of previous year to ₹1,344.0 crore for the September quarter.

The board declared a first interim dividend of ₹19 per share of ₹1 each (face value) for FY22.

"The dividend payout to the shareholders will be ₹516.8 crore and will be paid on and from November 22, 2021 to those shareholders whose names are on the register of members of the company as on November 2, 2021," the company said in a BSE filing.

Ram Raghavan, MD at Colgate-Palmolive, said, "Our overall growth momentum across our brands/categories has shown a consistent trajectory with good recovery on volume growth trends quarter on quarter. Overall penetration trends remain strong and are seeing favourable trends q-o-q."

"Our commitment to invest behind our brands and innovation remains a critical driver. We see continued strengthening of our brands and recent innovations like Colgate toothpaste for diabetics, Vedshakti Mouthspray and the entire Gentle range of toothbrushes continue to gain traction with consumers across platforms," Raghavan added.

Tech Mahindra Q2 net jumps 26%

New Delhi: Software exporter Tech Mahindra on Monday reported a 26% increase in its September quarter net at `1,338.7 crore and expects to maintain the trajectory. The company's overall revenue was up 16.1% at `10,881.3 crore in the second quarter of this fiscal and higher by 6.4%, 'highest in a decade', when compared with the preceding June quarter. It had a net profit of `1,064.6 crore in the July-September quarter of 2020. The company also flagged supply side challenges as demand for talent increases and blamed those for restricting its operating profit margins which stood flat as costs due to attrition and sub-contracting went up. Its attrition climbed to 21% at the end of September as against 14% in the year-ago period and 17% in June quarter. PTI

Telcos seek one-year extension of 5G trial period

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN what may delay commercial 5G rollout in India, telecom service providers — Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea — have sought extension of 5G trial period by one year from the Department of Telecom. In May this year, the government had allocated spectrum to the telecom companies in 700 Mhz band, 3.3-3.6 Gigahertz (Ghz) band and 24.25-28.5 Ghz band for trials across various locations for six months. The current trial period ends in November.

"Yes, we and other operators are seeking to extend the trial periods," said an telecom industry executive requesting anonymity.

While there is no fixed timeline when the government would go ahead with the spectrum auction process, telecom minister Ashwini Vaishnaw had last month said that the much delayed auctions will most probably be held in February 2022, and the government may even try for a January timeline.

The government at present is awaiting Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) views on reserve price, block size, quantum of spectrum to be auctioned and other modalities for spectrum across multiple bands.

According to an analyst at a consultancy firm, an extension of trial period might push the auction to second half of 2022. This would mean a commercial roll out may only take place in early 2023.

"Given the current financial condition, lack of readiness and no trial conducted by a major player, the government may consider giving an extension," he said, requesting anonymity.

It is heartening to see the inclusion of two new teams at such a high valuation, and it reiterates the cricketing and financial strength of our cricket ecosystem. The inclusion of two new teams will bring more domestic cricketers from our country to the global stage.

MONEY HEIST, NEW SEASON

Lucknow and Ahmedabad teams make foray into Indian Premier League | Sanjeev Goenka's RPSG buys Lucknow for ₹7090 cr, CVC Capital Partners picks Ahmedabad for ₹5625cr

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

EARLIER this month, Saudi Arabia's Public Investment Fund (PIF) bought English Premier League club Newcastle United for $380mn (₹3,100 crores) making it one of the costliest take overs ever. For a club that was founded in the 19th century, and part of a brand that is renowned worldwide, it was every bit worth their penny. On Monday, as the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) opened the bids to welcome two new teams in the Indian Premier League (IPL), it turned all the eyes on them. And at the end of a long-day, the 14-year-old league now has two teams from Lucknow and Ahmedabad that cost ₹7,090 crores and ₹5,625 crores.

Not just the winning bids, the fierce competition from bidders in itself showed how much the league has grown. Despite controversies that it has run into and sponsors terminating deals mid-way for varied reasons, it has shown right through that it is here to stay. And the belief in the brand IPL was evident from the moment several parties from around the globe showed interest in buying one of the two teams. From Manchester United owners, the Glazers, to Adanis from India, the demand to be part of the league was huge. Hence, it ensured the price was always going to sky-rocket. In the end, RPSG Ventures Ltd, owned by Sanjeev Goenka, alone made bids of ₹7090 crores to own Ahmedabad and Lucknow. Those were the highest bids on the table. The next highest bid came from the Irelia Company Pte Ltd. (CVC Capital Partners), a private equity firm headquartered in Luxembourg, tabled ₹5,625 crores. With RPSG opting to pick Lucknow as their home, CVC ended up with Ahmedabad and both teams will be on field from the 2022 season. It will be a 10-team league, with a total of 74 scheduled matches. It will see each team play seven matches at home and as many away.

According to industry sources, the numbers may not be a reflection of the current market price, but one where it is expected to grow. However, the fact that interested parties were willing to spend more than what the BCCI expected said a story or two. Out of the nine parties, whose bids were opened after technical evaluation process, the lowest tabled was by Lancer Capital (₹4,023.99 crore). The company's principal is Avram Glazer.

"It is definitely a sum that nobody expected. It is almost 250 per cent more than the base price, which shows the potential of the league," said Santosh N, the managing partner of D and P Advisory, who has been studying the brand IPL model over the years.

"Whenever there is a demand for an asset and a demand-supply mismatch, crazy numbers could come up. For assets that are there for limited supply, there will be over pricing because you don't get an entry whenever you want. These could go for premium. BCCI took 14 years to increase 8 teams to 10, and they will take much longer to increase from 10-12, so from that perspective, this was the best chance. If they paid 20-30 per cent more than the premium it is acceptable," he added.

WHO ARE CVC?

"World leader in private equity and credit with $125 billion (of assets under management... CVC's private equity platform manages $97 billion of assets..." according to their website.

CVC owning a franchise in the IPL isn't all that surprising because of the way the format is. Even from a global sporting perspective, CVC, who 'manage funds on behalf of 300 investors from North America, Europe, Asia and the Middle East', made news recently because of their interest in La Liga.

With Spanish clubs suffering financially as a result of Covid, CVC identified that area as a potential investment platform. Even if both Real Madrid and Barcelona protested and opted out, the vote went through in August. It's estimated to be worth some 2.1 bn euros.

Eye on Sajan, Srihari in swimming nationals

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

With the Asian Games, Commonwealth Games and the FINA World Championships scheduled for 2022, it could be an important year for Indian swimmers. The senior national aquatic championships, which starts from Tuesday, will give the big names, including Tokyo Olympians Srihari Nataraj, Sajan Prakash and Maana Patel, an opportunity to find out where they stand.

Besides, some juniors including Swadesh Mondal and Ridhima Veerendra Kumar, among others, will be eager to shine at the Basavanagudi Aquatic Centre. The Swimming Federation of India officials will also keep a close eye on the top performers. The nationals serves as a qualification event for the short and long course Worlds, scheduled in December 2021 and May next year respectively.

However, it will be interesting to see how Sajan fares as he is returning to action after an injury. Srihari and Maana are expected to deliver. Srihari is hopeful of a positive show.

"It is an important meet. We will get a good idea from here as to where we are at and what we need to work on moving into next season (year), which is important," said Srihari. "There are a few events, where I will be putting in more than the others. I have been enjoying training for the 100 and 200 free, so those are the events that I will be kind of pushing it. In the backstroke, I am not going in with a major goal, I just want to check where I am. This time, Karnataka have a very good relay team in the nationals. Let us see if I can come out of this nationals with a perfect 10. Last edition, I won eight gold."

Besides swimming, diving and water polo will also be part of the meet. It will be held at Kensington Swimming Pool and Nettakallappa Aquatic Centre, respectively. SFI have a major plans for water polo. "For water polo, a Serbian coach (Slobodan Soro) will be here. The idea is to have him help us select the core players from the various teams that play here. He will help us do selection for camps, which have been proposed. A 45-day camp with 25 players will be held in November-December and a 30-day camp with 17 players will be held in February...." said Monal Chokshi, SFI secretary.

Shami abused online, ex-stars bat for him

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

A FEW hours after Pakistan had beaten India, the responses to Mohammad Shami's last instagram post, posted hours before the match, turned predictable. 'Best of luck love emoji, and all the best bro', quickly became sour. The posters, some of them anonymous, dragged his religion into it. A few of them asked him to go to Pakistan. The full gamut of comments went from 'Kitna khaye ho ji pakistan se', 'Tu Pakistan me chala jaa tu thodi Santi hame bhi' to sentences that cannot be published here because of the ferociousness of the abuses. It once again revealed the toxicity of social media when India lose to Pakistan in particular.

Something Irfan Pathan reflected upon in a tweet on Monday. "Even I was part of #IndvsPak battles on the field where we have lost but never been told to go to Pakistan. I am talking about India of few years back. THIS CR*P NEEDS TO STOP," he wrote. The former India all-rounder is one of the few cricketers to have spoken publicly about the targeted abuse of Muslims in the Indian context. By evening former cricketers like Sachin Tendulkar, WV Raman, Virender Sehwag, Harbhajan Singh rallied behind Shami. "We are so proud of you @MdShami11 bhaiya Indian flag emoji," posted Yuzvendra Chahal.

BIG WIN FOR AFGHANISTAN

SHARJAH: Afghanistan spinners — Mujeeb Ur Rahman and Rashid Khan — spun a web around Scotland to bundle them out for 60 and register a comprehensive 130-run win in their Super 12 match of the ICC T20 World Cup here in Sharjah on Monday. Brief scores: Afghanistan 190/4 in 20 ovs (Najibullah 59, Gurbaz 46, Zazai 44, Sharif 2/33) beat Scotland 60 in 10.2 ovs (Mujeeb 5/20, Rashid 4/9).

ALL TO PLAY FOR

Group stage matches keep coming thick and fast as the T20 World Cup heads to the half-way stage of the tournament. A look at Tuesday's two encounters...

SA VS WI AT 3.30 PM

Same approach likely : Since their poor showing against England, the West Indies batters have been told their approach is wrong. Well, that approach has brought them immense success in the past. Public memory is short. They lost both their opening matches in the T20 World Cups they ultimately went onto win. They will back themselves to deliver.

NZ VS PAK AT 7.30 PM

Shaheen vs Boult: It may not be a direct confrontration but the one who wins this battle will likely help their side win the contest. Shaheen Shah Afridi was devastating against the Indian top order and Trent Boult is one of the pastmasters of getting early breakthroughs but he has had a bit of a dip in recent times.

EXPRESS READ

Post loss, Kohli welcomes break

India were outplayed by Pakistan in all departments of the game, resulting in 10-wicket loss at the T20 World Cup. It was a tough pill for Virat Kohli and co to swallow considering they were looked upon as one of the title favourites. When teams lose in such style, they take time to recover. So it's a touch of good fortune that their next game, against New Zealand, is only on Saturday. It gives the team time to recover. Kohli welcomed the upcoming break. "I think it works really well for us from our point of view. Knowing that we have played a full-fledged season already, we played IPL, which is very high octane by itself, in testing conditions here in the UAE, and then we come into World Cup" Kohli said.

DAY'S DIARY

Act becomes law

The USA PATRIOT Act in response to the September 11 attack on the World Trade Centre was signed into law by George W Bush on this day in 2011

FIGHTING TERRORISM

The USA PATRIOT Act stands for Uniting and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act (of 2001)

WHAT DOES THE LAW DO?

This law significantly expanded the search and surveillance powers of federal law-enforcement and intelligence agencies

PRIVACY IN QUESTION

Many of the provisions of the Act relating to electronic surveillance were proposed before September 11, and were subject to much criticism and debate

STARTUP WATCH

BACKSTORY
Deep Rooted is a Bengaluru-based agri-tech startup founded by Avinash BR and co-founded by Arvind Murali in February 2021. The D2C (direct to consumer) farm-to-home brand aims to deliver fresh, clean and residue-free fruits and vegetables from harvest.

FINANCE FUNDA
The startup raised USD 7.5 million from Clover Ventures

USP
The agri-tech startup allows customers to trace and access the source of their fruits and vegetables through 'managed farm networks' enabled in the app. The aim is to make the assembling and delivery process of fruits and vegetables transparent to give a brief insight on the quality, quantity, hydroponic method and delivery routes of fruits and vegetables.

TARGET AUDIENCE
It targets farmers who want to scale the production and consumers who want a transparent model of tracing and accessing fruits and vegetables. So far, they have nearly 90 farmers on board from Bengaluru and Hyderabad.

From introducing more vegetarian items to fusing north and south Indian cuisines and adding local ingredients to French desserts, chefs are giving their menus a makeover

Ever since the pandemic hit, we've seen a rise in demand for vegetarian dishes. We've been re-working some of the dishes on the menu with Mangalurean cuisine as focus
-Chef Naren Thimmaiah, Vivanta Bengaluru

ANILA KURIAN

IT'S safe to say that the the palates of Bengaluraens have changed over the pandemic. From being conscious about the ingredients to sampling fusion fares, the combination of one's comfort food and health factor have clearly taken over. And chefs too are re-inventing some of the popular regional dishes with the dishes they already served at the restaurant.

Chef Naren Thimmaiah, executive chef of Vivanta Bengaluru Residency Road, explains that they always add a few new dishes now and then to the menu at Karavalli. "As much as it's not true, people assume that Mangalurean cuisine is all about seafood. However, since the pandemic hit, we've seen an increase in demand for vegetarian dishes. We've been working on adapting some of those vegetarian dishes onto our menu while still keeping the focus on Mangalurean cuisine," he says.

Patrode (steamed, savoury cakes made using rice and colocasia leaves) and pundi (rice dumplings) are hot favourites these days, says Thimmaiah.

"The concept of starters doesn't really exist in south Indian cuisine but we've adapted some of the dishes we otherwise have as main courses to create starters," he adds.

Taking fusion to another level is chef Suresh Pillai of Chef Pillai restaurant, now open in Whitefield. Apart from his signature dish Fish Nirvana, which is still a favourite among customers, the menu includes north Indian dishes in Kerala flavours. He explains, "Pani puri is a favourite but it's not a Kerala dish. So we've innovated the pani puri concept to have mango pickle instead of the potato and use sambaram (Kerala-style buttermilk) as the liquid. And for those who like street food, they can enjoy a sweet, tangy version of it with our banana fritter chaat." Combining the two cuisines has given more reason for people to enjoy Kerala dishes. "Our Inji Puli Chicken Wings is a humble take on the popular barbeque chicken that everyone loves. So, you get the whole experience of the juicy, crispy chicken but with the spicy, tanginess of the inji puli which substitutes the barbeque flavour," he explains.

The demand for bread over sweet dishes has also gone up, according to chef Avin Thalaiath of Lavonne India. "In fact, bakery items have seen a huge demand from last year. Sourdough is one of the items people have been obsessing over, especially because it's healthy and made in the most natural way possible," he says. Along with the baked goodies, like Pillai mentions, local flavours seem to be in demand in these offerings too.

"Our Kerala Onion, Ham and Cheddar Croissant, along with Tomato and Feta Cheese Danish are hot sellers. People enjoy the Kerala-flavoured onion croissant as we give it a homely touch. The tomato we use for the Danish is locally grown in Bengaluru too. The idea is to also focus more on artisanal food and encourage sustainability," says Thalaiath.

'Playful Cub', taken in Kenya, won an award at a contest

ZOOMING IN

From encountering an elephant in Kabini to capturing the 'playful lion cub' at Kenya, this nephrologist tells CE about his love for wildlife and nature photography

SANATH PRASAD

IT was October 2018 and a post-monsoon season with a pleasant climate prevailing over the dense Ranthambore National Park in Rajasthan. Dr Vidyashankar P and his safari team were tracking a popular tigress of the park named Arrow Head. Having monitored the tigress' path, Vidyashankar was waiting to capture the wild cat in his safari jeep, with his Canon 1DX in hand.

After a long wait, Arrow Head showed up and walked along the road for nearly two hours, giving Vidyashankar, a wildlife and nature photographer, one of the best photography experiences. Vidyashankar, lead consultant — nephrology at Aster CMI Hospital, has enjoyed being behind the lens for over a decade now. His passion for photography kickstarted as a creative routine. However, in the last five years, he also bundled environment conservation onto his list of passions. "We have a doctors' group of all those who share an interest in wildlife and nature photography. We usually make time during the weekends and find places like Kabini and Bandipur, and sometimes the outskirts of Bengaluru to capture birds and nature. We also intended to promote the idea of conserving biodiversity through photography. I have captured Flamingos that were spotted in Hoskote in 2019, the Himalayan birds in Bengaluru and other migratory birds," says Vidyashankar, who regularly posts information and pictures of rare and endangered mammals.

There have been many times when the doctor's passion has had to take a backseat during medical emergencies. "Many times during my visits to Kabini or Bandipur, I had to end the trip abruptly and rush back to Bengaluru for a medical emergency. There is no compromise when it boils down to the life of a patient," says Vidyashankar, who has conducted nearly 150 kidney transplants over the span of four years.

Interestingly, in 2020, Vidyashankar was also conferred an award by Wildlife and Action Photography in the category of mammals. The photograph that won him the award was an image of a lion and a cub playing with each other. "I captioned this photo 'Playful Cub'. This was shot in Maasai Mara National Reserve in Kenya in 2019. I also shot pictures of the Maasai tribal group, which is known for the 'jumping dance' that is a ritual during weddings. Kenya is indeed a photographer's paradise," says Vidyashankar, who also recalls his encounter with an elephant in Kabini in 2019. "Elephants are very intelligent animals and can remember their enemies well for grudges. A single tusker came charging at our safari jeep, causing panic, and I missed the chance to snap it. This was one of my most horrifying wildlife experiences," adds Vidyashankar.

With the pandemic putting a halt to his travel plans, the doctor is now planning to make up for the lost time starting next month. "During the last two years or so, I conducted small photography workshops within my doctors' group and trained my daughter in photography whenever I got time," says Vidyashankar, adding, "I have planned a trip to Bandhavgarh in November, hoping to quench my thirst for wildlife photography."

Meet Bengaluru make-up artist Durga Venkatesh, who can drape a saree in 155 styles in two hours

I decided I wanted to learn the art of saree draping after watching my sisters drape them on various occasions
– Durga Venkatesh, fashion designer

IN a time where inspiration and endurance is wearing thin, Durga Venkatesh, a make-up artist and bespoke fashion designer, has chosen to take life by the hems. Venkatesh, who has lived in Bengaluru since her childhood, currently holds the world record for the fastest number of saree styles draped, having been attested by the Limca Book of Records, India Book of Records, Asia Book of Records, Asian World Records, British World Records, and, most recently, the Kalam's World Records in August. In addition to this, she also won the Divalicious Mrs South India Universe title for 2019, and manages her own make-up salon and academy, Durga Makeup Studio & Academy in JP Nagar.

She holds the record for draping the highest number of saree styles in an hour with 83 styles in the India Book of Records and the Asia Book of Records. At the Asian World Records and British World Records, she draped a saree in 135 styles in two hours, 14 minutes and 28 seconds. In the Limca Book of Records and the Kalam's Book of Records, she holds the record for draping a saree in 155 styles in two hours, 15 minutes and 38 seconds. In addition to this, she was also awarded an honorary doctorate for the achievement of being the fastest saree draper from the International Anti-Corruption and Human Rights Council, an NGO operating from Chennai.

An internationally-certified make-up artist, Venkatesh has had a life-long interest in fashion and make-up, particularly saree draping. Watching her sisters drape sarees as a child for various occasions, she decided that she wanted to learn the art of saree draping. Before she knew it, she had created almost 135 saree draping styles as a result of draping sarees at her salon, notably a saree for Shruthi Gowda, Mrs India Karnataka for 2017. "Then I said, 'why can't I try to do some records?' So, I tried and I got them," she said, talking about contacting various record books to document her achievement.

On what her plans are next, she says, "Actually, women who get married feel they can't do anything after marriage or after they have kids, so I wanted to help include them and teach them as well as give them a positive attitude and support their employment." After her various achievements, she has made an effort to teach various people, particularly those from poor backgrounds, most recently in Kengeri, classes and workshops on how to apply make-up. "I want to train many people and have them make use of it, because many people aren't able to earn so I want to support and encourage them," she says.

ARDHA KAMALAMUNYASANA

(HALF POSE DEDICATED TO SIDDHAR KAMALAMUNI)

In Sanskrit, 'Ardha' means half, 'Kamalamuni' is the name of one of the eighteen Siddhars mentioned in the Abhidhana-cintamani, a 12th century lexicon by Hemacandra. The term Siddhar means 'a perfected master'. Historically, Siddhar also refers to someone who has achieved a high degree of physical as well as spiritual enlightenment. These Siddhars are united by their philosophy, accepting the human body as the microcosm of the universe, and seeing human evolution as the ultimate accomplishment of the regenerative power of the Universe.

STEPS

- Begin in Dandasana (Staff Pose). Relax with normal breathing for a while before starting the pose.
- Exhale and come into Padmasana (Lotus Pose).
- Place your palms a few inches behind your sitting bones.
- Inhale and slowly lift your tailbone, buttocks and thighs (as one unit) towards the ceiling.
- At this stage, try to balance your body weight on your palms and knees. Stretch your chest and shoulders as much as you can.
- In this position, focus in between your eyebrows (Ajna Chakra).
- Stay in this pose for 3 to 6 long breaths.
- To come out of this pose, exhale and slowly bring your buttocks down onto the floor.
- Finally, release your legs and then come into Dandasana.

BENEFITS

- Good to calm the mind.
- Helps improve concentration and sense of balance.
- Regular practice helps improve lung capacity.
- Helps stretch and strengthen the spine.
- Stimulates all your Chakras (Energy Points) in the body.
- Helpful to relieve stress, anxiety and depression.
- Helps to massage the abdominal organs.
- Useful to stimulate the reproductive system.
- Helps boost immune system.
- Strengthens the knees, ankles, hips, wrists, arms and shoulders.

LIMITATIONS

- People suffering from severe back, hip, knee, wrist or shoulder injury and who have sciatica, hip problems or hernia, should avoid this asana.
- To prevent strained muscles and torn ligaments, avoid this asana.
- Avoid practising this pose during menstruation and pregnancy.

'HURTS WHEN I HEAR AWFUL THINGS ABOUT MY FAMILY'

From blinking in a certain way during RCB matches, to dealing with the depths of depression, Sidharatha Mallya, son of business tycoon Vijay Mallya, tells CE how he's worked on himself

SANATH PRASAD

2016 was the year when business tycoon Vijay Mallya left India. If that made headlines on one side, on the other, his family, particularly his son Sidharatha Mallya, bore the brunt of the goings-on. From dealing with issues of Obsessive Compulsive Disorder to alcoholism, Mallya Jr went through a transitional phase, all of which he pens in his latest release If I'm Honest, published by Westland Publications.

Speaking to CE from California where he is wrapping up some of his acting projects which were unfinished due to the pandemic, Mallya goes back in time to 2016 when all was well. At least that's what the world thought with the youngster having completed his drama school. "I went into depression in 2016. When I decided to seek help, I was surprised to know that I had been depressed for a number of years without being aware of it. It was not predominantly my dad's problems that disturbed me," says the 34-year-old.

Mallya considers himself as a superstitious person andconstantly 'feared bad luck' if things were not done in a particular way. This OCD affected his mental health with things getting out of hand when he started work with Royal Challengers Bangalore. "I would behave, speak and also blink in a certain way, believing that could possibly lead the team to victory," says Mallya in his memoir.

According to the actor and now writer, nobody, except his mother Samira Tyabjee Mallya, knew about the book and its content. Unlike the conventional methods, he recorded his voice and self-interviewed in order to write the book. "It was not difficult. The book is not an advocacy tool. I want to share my story to people and help those going through mental health problems who are not able to talk about it," says Mallya, who reads Dan Brown's books and is a huge Harry Potter fan.

Mallya has come to accept harsh comments although the journey towards it hasn't been easy. 'I hope your family dies'; 'I hope you go to jail' – these are some of the criticisms on social media that Mallya often hears which has, in the past, had an 'emotional effect' on him. "It hurts to get messages from people saying awful things about my dad and my family. (sic). Initially, I did respond and hit back at certain people, but later, I realised it doesn't lead to anything. I decided to respond with love and a heart," says Mallya, who has dedicated his book to his therapist and 'guiding light', Danika Zivot.

Running, which helps him keep physically fit and mentally strong, is something he does every morning. "But I miss playing team sports and haven't played any since my university days," says Mallya, who hopes to get back to doing so soon.

> I was surprised to know that I had been depressed for a number of years without being aware of it. It was not predominantly my dad's problems that disturbed me, but a series of other problems that affected me

Why life has lost its mojo

It's raining, it's pouring and our city is drowning. Bengaluru's rain romance quotient, always at a high during the monsoons and autumns, doesn't seem quite so appealing any more. It's hardly any fun being caught in the rain, the clouds unloading mercilessly from above, stony trenches passing off for roads under the feet, smoky traffic jams and an overtaxed wallet. Life has lost its mojo.

Friends who are still WFH assure me that it is ideal weather to stay in – you could just avoid all the negatives, and gain the warmth of home, a perfect window view, hot meals, starting with bajjis and chai... Food factor apart, they are sure that all this copious rain is sending out a message: Stay in, stop polluting and the world will heal itself. The coronavirus effectively kept the world indoors for the better part of 2020 and 2021 and now, even fuel prices are giving out a similar message: Don't run about.

Gurus of conservation warn that climate change is upon us and we can no longer ignore it. Not when it flows by as rivers of filth through our cities, and brings down the hills – our favourite tourist spots, at that. Doomsayers are convinced that the end of the world is nigh, and it will be death by drowning, a suicide of sorts.

They may not be too far off the mark. Bengaluru has hardly seen such savage summers, extended monsoons, disturbed autumns or sweaty winters, all accompanied by rain, attributed to 'formations in the seas'. The coast is constantly jumping from 'orange alert' to 'red alert', there are strange migrations of marine life and algae blooms are lighting up our seas. The human race is only contributing to it by building heat islands – cities showcasing glass, chrome, cement, little greenery and even less intelligence. Our 'citius, altius, fortius' lifestyle, coupled with easy cash and consumerism, is heating up the world. And as we merrily axe trees for our prized projects, the remaining few uproot helplessly when it rains. The city is losing its stabilisers.

Climate apart, there is a great deal of other heat to contend with too: political temperatures are on the rise, the Sensex is on a fiery trajectory, Covid cases are still high, prices of essentials are on fire, Twitter and FB trolls can sear you with hate posts, and the Aryan Khan prime time debates are scorching up TRPs. and we are losing our marbles.

3 ways in which you can gift the joy of music

As we gear up for one of the most anticipated times of the year in India, we find ourselves asking the age-old question: what should we give our families? The idea behind Deepavali gifting started as an opportunity to give our loved ones something they'd treasure. With the pressure to be as over-the-top as possible, it is now an exercise in the art of regifting and passing the snack boxes we got onto others.

Last Deepavali, the idea of spending the holidays with our loved ones turned on its head. We turned to virtual celebrations and giving meaningful gifts. This year, we may continue to live in uncertainty, but we're still putting thought into what we give the people we love.

This year, try giving yourself and your family the gift of music. It's something you can all treasure for a lifetime, and you can personalise it to suit a large number of people without putting in too much time or effort. Here are three ways we recommend that you share music with others this Deepavali:

Festive playlists

Everyone has a unique definition of what holiday music means to them, more so during Deepavali. For some, this is a time of spirituality and reflection. For some, it's about cards and letting loose for a few days. And for others, it's simply time spent with family after months of staying apart. And there is an ocean of music to reflect all these moods.

Curate a playlist with the songs that resonate with you, and share it with others. You can add a story about what went on behind the scenes, and why this playlist made you think of them. It's personal, thoughtful and only takes minutes to put together.

Music lessons

With the festival season and the end of the year coming up, many adults either reconnect with old passions or start new ones. If you know someone who used to strum the guitar when they were in college and abandoned it after they started working, now is a good time to remind them to reconnect with music. If there's someone who thinks it's too late to start learning to sing their favourite pop songs, you can tell them there's no such thing. Share a voucher for music lessons, and your gift might just ignite an old spark.

Virtual hang-outs with great musicians

Since the pandemic hit, self-paced courses on every topic imaginable took the limelight in a big way. Some help you build new skills, some masterclasses are an opportunity to go behind the scenes and hear anecdotes from the careers of some of the greatest artistes in their field. When you gift a self-paced course, you give two things. First, a chance to learn from the very best in the industry. Second, an intimate virtual hangout session where you get access to stories that are not already floating around the internet.

Here's wishing you all a fun holiday season. Our tip when giving out thoughtful gifts: don't forget to treat yourself, too! You've earned it.

B'lureans usher in festive season with ladoo-making session

Bengalureans set the ball rolling for Deepavali with a ladoo-making event at The Oakwood Premier Prestige Bangalore, recently. The property located inside UB City on Vittal Mallya Road, started this ritual last year under executive chef, Altamsh Patel. The culinary team gathered to make their own box of Mawa Ladoo with a filling of gulkand sprinkled with fresh desiccated coconut. Wajeed Bagwan, general manager, said, "Deepavali is one of the biggest festivals across the country and we wanted to connect with people through the age-old tradition of ushering in good tidings, dressing up the place and ourselves and enjoying some happy moments with our guests making and eating traditional sweets."

Holding tough emotions

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

In any loving relationship, we typically desire a safe space to be our full emotional self, to feel whatever we feel as fully as we can, express it safely and without any judgement and be able to recover ourselves from whatever depths or heights we get to in feeling as we do. Sometimes, it is the presence of a loved one who can validate our feelings and be there for us, that makes the difference from letting the emotion flow through and out versus suppressing it altogether or letting the emotion take over and lose control.

Nothing says, "I love you," as much as a loved one who gets what we feel and why, is able to join us in the way we feel, and gets us back to emotional safety. A relationship where every person can be this safe space for each other is the ultimate vision of a perfect relationship.

Rarely does that happen. Sometimes, the emotional validation is totally one-sided, with one party always pushing their emotional needs on the other, demanding validation, or worse, expecting emotional collusion expecting that their loved one to take the same position as them against the world. Other relationships might have emotional coldness, a complete lack of emotional connection, with the relationship based almost completely on transactions of everyday life, and that just feels like an arid desert devoid of any human connection.

Most of our relationships trundle along somewhere in between. We might get a few of those emotional safety moments, miss a few others altogether and in some moments, even be antagonistic to each other. We may be able to experience some mutuality in being there for each other even if not always. We might be there when it counts, or at all other times but somehow fail to be there just when emotional support might be needed. Still, we manage to carry along anyways just because there is still enough support.

Where it gets really tricky is if all the parties are in heightened emotional states, and different ones at that. One is super angry while the other terribly sad. Who validates which emotion then? Can one be angry while fully validating the other's sadness? And what if they are totally different emotions - like one person is exhilarated with some success of theirs and another is very upset? Can we fully feel and express what we feel while allowing the other's very contradictory emotion the same space? How can one celebrate while another mourns? Should one not hold back and wait for a better time for the other's sake? Does one emotional state trump another emotional state?

Life often brings us these emotionally incongruous moments, and yes, often we might choose to suppress our own emotions to hold space for our loved one's feelings, especially if it is grief, deep disappointment or other tough feelings. Can we aspire to be the kind of relationship where both can coexist? After all, rainbows appear only when there is sunshine and rain together.

'WE ARE LOOKING TO RELEASE BHAJARANGI 2 IN ALMOST 1,000 SCREENS ACROSS INDIA'

The Shivarajkumar-starrer fantasy drama, directed by Harsha and backed by Jayanna Films, will see a release in Kannada and Telugu

A SHARADHAA

Jayanna and Bhogendra

WITH the release date of Shivarajkumar-Harsha's upcoming film, Bhajarangi 2, approaching, the craze surrounding the film is unreal. The fantasy-based commercial entertainer will be out in theatres on October 29. The film will release in Kannada and Telugu.

The team is organising a pre-release event in Bengaluru today, which will be graced by Puneeth Rajkumar and Yash.

Producer Jayanna, who is bankrolling the project along with Bhogendra under the Jayanna Films banner, is also doubling up as the distributor of Bhajarangi 2. Jayanna revealed that the film will be released in around 350 plus theatres across Karnataka. "The Telugu version of Bhajarangi 2 will also be released in around 350-400 theatres. This apart, the Kannada and the Telugu version will be released across India in around 200 theatres. We are looking at releasing our film in approximately 1000 screens," says Jayanna.

Meanwhile, a surprise is waiting for Shivanna fans from the producer, and he will announce it on Wednesday morning as he plans to open the booking on various platforms. "There is a lot of demand for Bhajarangi 2, and we are looking forward to celebrating the cinema along with the audience," says Jayanna. Bhajarangi 2 is one of the most anticipated films of 2021, will be the third collaboration of the actor-director. It also marks Shivarajkumar's fourth project with Jayanna Films. The film's music is scored by Arjun Janya and cinematography will be by J Swamy.

Bhajarangi 2 consists of an ensemble cast that includes Bhavana, Shruti, and Loki. The film has Harsha also introducing new talents -- Cheluvaraj, Prasanna, and Girish, who come from a theatre background.

Ramesh Aravind

'FINALLY, WE WILL BE OUT WITH OUR FAMILY THRILLER, 100'

Ramesh Aravind's upcoming directorial based on cybercrime to hit theatres on November 19

CE FEATURES

RAMESH Aravind, who is raring to begin shooting for Shivaji Surathkal 2, is equally thrilled to release his much-awaited directorial, 100. The film will be finally out in theatres this November 19, and an official announcement was made by the actor-director himself on social media. Certified U/A, the makers waited for the COVID-19 outbreak to come under control to release the film. "Finally we come with 100, '' says Ramesh, adding, "It is a family thriller, and I am looking forward to presenting my film to the audience."

100, which is based on cybercrime, has the actor-director collaborating with Gaalipata 2 producer, Ramesh Reddy, who is bankrolling the project under his banner Suraj Productions.

Ramesh Aravind will be essaying the role of a police officer in the film that also features Rachita Ram as his sister. The duo had earlier shared screen space in Pushpaka Vimana.

100 also features actor Poorna in an important role. KGF-fame Ravi Basrur has composed music and Satya Hegde has handled the camerawork for 100. The director of Shivaji Surathkal, Akash Srivatsa, has worked as the editor of the project.

Ramesh Aravind made his directorial debut with Rama Shama Bhama, and his last directorial was Sundaranga Jaana (2016). He has also completed shooting the remakes of the Hindi blockbuster Queen in Kannada (Parul Yadav's Butterfly) and Tamil (Kajal Agarwal's Paris Paris), which is yet to see the light of day.

Dhanush and Sulaksha Kaira

Dhanush, Sulaksha Kaira's Snehitha to release on Nov 19

CE FEATURES

ACTOR Dhanush's next, Snehitha will be among the handful of films that are part of the November rush. This will be the third outing for the Pyar Ka Gol Gumbaz actor. Dhanush, who shared a few pictures from the film, mentioned that the film is currently in the post-production stage and will hit theatres on November 19.

Director Sangeeth Sagar is doubling up as the composer and lyricist of the film.

The commercial entertainer, based on friendship, is backed by R Ashok, and also stars Sulaksha Kaira, who has previously worked in Sedu. The film also stars Shivaram in a prominent role. Meanwhile, Dhanush is also making his Bollywood debut in Rehaman's Mano Tha Pyaar. The actor has completed shooting for this project, and is looking forward to the makers announcing the release date.

Seven Kings Must Die announced

CE FEATURES

NETFLIX is set to produce a feature film continuation of the historical drama series The Last Kingdom. Titled Seven Kings Must Die, the two-hour feature will be backed by Carnival Films and filming will begin early next year in Budapest.

Actor Alexander Dreymon, who stars as the main character Uhtred and acts as executive producer on the show, made the announcement recently at London MCM Comic-Con. Dreymon will reprise his role and will be joined by many of the series' cast, along with some new faces. The series is based on Bernard Cornwell's Saxon Stories and began in 2015, first as a BBC series. Netflix joined the production team as co-producers for the show's second season and finally acquired the full rights for the rest of the series.

MUMBAI SCHEDULE OF LIGER GOES ON FLOORS

CE FEATURES

A new schedule of Liger starring Vijay Deverakonda and Ananya Panday was kickstarted in Mumbai on Monday. The team, reportedly, is filming a peppy song on Vijay and Ananya in a specially erected set. Charmmee Kaur, the producer of Liger had shared the information on Twitter and said that Vijay has danced 'like never before'.

Directed by Puri Jagannadh, Liger features Vijay Deverakonda as a martial artist with a stutter. The actor had trained extensively in MMA and other combat sports in Thailand and will be sporting six-pack abs and a new hairdo for the part.

The film also features boxing legend Mike Tyson in a special role and the makers will soon leave for the US to complete these portions.

Produced by Puri Connects in association with Dharma Productions, Liger also has Ramya Krishnan and Ronit Roy in prominent roles.

The film will release early next year in Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam, Kannada and Hindi.

Maribel Verdú and Sophie Okonedo join Raymond and Ray

CE FEATURES

MARIBEL Verdú and Sophie Okonedo are the newest additions to the cast of Raymond and Ray, Apple's new original film. Also starring Ewan McGregor and Ethan Hawke, the film narrates the story of two estranged half-brothers living in the shadow of their unloving father.

Directed by Rodrigo García, the film is set to follow the titular characters (McGregor and Hawke, respectively), as they cope with the passing of their father and see the grieving process as an opportunity to reinvent themselves, having escaped the shadow they've lived under their entire lives. Verdú joins the cast as Lucia, partner and caretaker to Raymond and Ray's father and Okonedo, on the other hand, is set to play Kiera, a nurse and source of comfort to the characters' father at the end of his life.

Verdú is also a part of The Flash, in which she plays Nora Allen, mother of titular superhero Barry Allen. Oscar nominee Okonedo on the other hand has The Wheel of Time and Death on the Nile, alongside Kenneth Branagh and Gal Gadot in her kitty. The film is produced by Oscar winner Alfonso Cuarón, as well as Bonnie Curtis and Julie Lynn, who produce through Mockingbird Pictures. No release date has been announced for the project.
